A PROUD NATION OPENS ARMS TO YOUNG LINDBERGH

Youth Who Departed Virtually Unknown a Month Ago Returns to Find National Capital at His Feet—Magnitude of Welcome Never Before Equalled—Hero Flier Almost Overcome by Splendor of Homecoming.

WASHINGTON, June 11—(I.N.S.)—Bearing a simple message of good will between peoples, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh came home today to receive such a reception as America has never accorded any of its distinguished heroes.

He had but one message, this youth whom President Coolidge described as "our ambassador without portfolio," and that he delivered briefly and simply after receiving the plaudits of a quarter of a million people an dthe highest honors at the disposal of the government.

Standing bareheaded and embarrassed before a throng of nearly 100,000 people in the shadow of the Washington monument, the youth said:

"On the evening of May 21 I arrived at Le Bourget. I spent a week in Paris, a day in Belgium, and some days in London. At every meeting I attended I was required to bring a message home to you. It was always the same message:

" 'You have seen the affection of the people of France for the people of America demonstrated to you. When you return, take back this message to the people of the United States from the people of Europe.'

"I thank you."

And that was all. He sat down.

No Mention of Flight.

There was no reference by this unusual youth to the magnitude of his achievement, nor the unmatched magnificence of his welcome home. He was awed and overcome, and so he delivered his simple mssage in response to the high praise he had just heard from the president's lips, and then sat down.

He had set foot on American soil again scarcely an hour before, and in that hour there was crowded most of the things that come to men of twice his age, and then only after patient years of tortuous toil.

Warships, the finest in the navy, escorted the youth up the Potomac and into the capital; a hundred airplanes circled the ships as they moved and 200,000 people, stretched in a colorful panorama from the navy yard to the Washington monument, split the skies with their yelling admiration for him.

The glimpse of "Lindy" that the crowd had was all too short—for the crowd. Within an hour after President Coolidge had pinned the distinguished flying cross upon him at the monument ceremonies, and he had been swiftly snatched from the exuberance of the throngs, a mob of several thousand people gathered outside the temporary white house in Dupont Circle and was yelling: "We want Lindy!"

WASHINGTON, June 11—(I.N.S.)—Amid the roar of circling airplanes overhead and the shrieking sirens of scores of river craft, the long grey snout of the United State cruiser Memphis poked her way into the navy yard dock at 11:32 a. m., today, bearing home Col. Charles A. Lindenburgh from his glorious trans-Atlantic adventure.

The youth who departed virtually unknown a month ago, fortified with four ham sandwiches and unlimited courage, returned to find the national capital at his feet in such an outburst of hero worship as has never before been witnessed.

Gathered there on the dock to greet him were the elite of Washington officialdom—cabinet officers, a dozen members of the United States senate, a dozen members of the house—ranking figures of the army and navy, old flying "buddies," boyhood friends—and more important than all of them in the eyes of the smiling youth—his mother.

Every department of the government was represented in the greeting. Only President Coolidge himself was missing—and he was merely waiting for the public to pay its homage to the youth down the mile-long parade of Pennsylvania avenue before receiving him at the

115 LETTERS SENT BY AIR MAIL TO CAPT. LINDBERGH

Letters of greeting sent from Lincoln to Charles Lindbergh via air mail in the past four days totaled 115 pieces, almost as many pieces as were mailed to other destinations. In these four days ordinary air mail totaled 156.

Tuesday, six letters were sent to Lindbergh, Wednesday the number increased to 20, Thursday it had reached 39 and Friday was the big day when 50 pieces were sent him.

M'MULLEN SAYS WANTS LOWDEN

Emphatically Declares is Backing Illinois Man for President.

Governor May Run for Delegate to National Convention.

More emphatically than in his first pronouncement last Thursday, Governor McMullen proclaimed it to the world in an interview given to newspaper men Saturday morning that he is for Frank O. Lowden for president, first, last and all the time. He has already received many letters from Nebraska people endorsing his stand, he said, and has every reason to believe the republican voters of this state will give their endorsement to the Illinois man in the presidential preference primary next April.

The governor had read in a newspaper supposed to favor President Coolidge's renomination an editorial suggestion that his own support of Lowden was a mere political gesture, that he didn't mean much of anything by it, and that eventually he would be found supporting Coolidge. He made it clear that nobody except himself is authorized to say what his future political course will be.

"I am supporting Governor Lowden because he understands our needs here in the central west," declared Mr. McMullen. "I'm for him bcause he personifies the interests of agriculture, our basic industry in Nebraska. He is the outstanding man in that regard and the one on whom the western states should unite."

Sees No Hope in Coolidge.

"The only tangible plan which has been formulated that holds out any prospect of permanent relief for the farmer is that which was embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill passed by the last congress," continued the governor. "That bill was presented to the president and he vetoed it. We have every reason to suppose he would do the same thing again.

"Had Mr. Coolidge permitted the

FLYING CROSS TO LINDBERGH WITH HONORS

Coolidge Pins Distinguished Medal on Returned Air Hero.

PRAISE HEAPED ON 'AMBASSADOR'

President Applies Many Words of Adoration to "Lindy."

MONUMENT GROUNDS, WASHINGTON, June 11 — (I. N. S.)—Ringing adjectives of praise and of adoration accompanied President Coolidge's presentation of the distinguished flying cross to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today.

"Our ambassador without portfolio," the president termed the blonde boy who beat the Atlantic—a boy "representing the best traditions of this country, of a stock known for its deeds of adventure and exploration."

Particularly did Mr. Coolidge dwell on the forcefulness and stability of character of the New York-to-Paris flier. Quoting from Lindbergh's record in the files of the militia bureau, the executive found him to be "intelligent," "industrious," "energetic," "dependable," "stable," "efficient," "congenial," "frank," "modest," "a man of good moral habits and regular in all his business transactions."

"One of the officers expressed his belief that the young man 'would successfully complete everything he undertakes,' " said the president. "This reads like a prophecy."

State to Grant 30-Day Leave to Legion Delegates

Ex-service men of the World war who are employed in departments of the state government under Governor McMullen's control and who desire to attend the convention of the American Legion in Paris next September will be allowed 30 days' leave of absence on full pay.

The governor granted this concession at the request of Nels Johnson of Valley in charge of arrangements for Nebraska World war veterans going to France for the 10th anniversary meeting of their organization. It was pointed out that any man making the trip would necessarily be absent two or three months, thus suffering a considerable loss of pay, and that the circumstances would justify the state's allowing more than the regular two weeks' vacation period.

The order applies to employes in all the code departments and all other governmental agencies under the governor's direction, such as the national guard, the state sheriff's office, and the capitol commission.

It is anticipated that the other state officers will extend the same privilege to their assistants.

Even with the allowance of a month's salary during their pilgrimage to France, the journey will involve a considerable outlay for each individual, and only half a dozen state employes have so far signified their intention of going.

BELIEVE STOLEN GOODS LOCATED

A man was arrested at Nebraska City Friday who had in his possession an amount of cutlery, silverware and watches believed to have been stolen from a hardware store at Howe, which was robbed Wednesday night according to Deptuy State Sheriff Hasson. He is being detained until full identification of the stolen goods is made. Two others, believed to be participants in the robbery, got away.

British Fear New Break In Europe Peace

LONDON, June 11—(By the Associated Press)—Anxiety lest the peace of Europe be disturbed in consequence of the Russian situation was exhibited in some quarters in London today.

The execution of twenty persons in Moscow on charges of anti-soviet activities was regarded as a direct reprisal for the assassination of Pierre Voikoff, soviet minister to Poland.

Although no British subjects were among those executed, at least one editorial commentator expressed the view that the executions would not have taken place is Anglo-Soviet diplomatic relations, recently broken, had continued.

MOSCOW, June 11—(By the Associated Press)—The reply of the soviet government to the Polish note expressing regret for the assassination of Pierre Voikoff, soviet minister at Warsaw, will be handed to M. Patek, the Polish minister, here tonight.

LINCOLN FLIER IN PACIFIC HOP

Auggie Peddlar to Fly Buhl Verval Plane for $75,000 Prize.

Known as Very Daring Aviator—Got Most of Experience Here.

Auggie Peddlar, 24-year-old Lincoln aviator, has been selected to pilot a Buhl Verval plane in a nonstop flight over the Pacific ocean from San Francisco to Honolulu, according to word reaching Ray Page of the Lincoln Aircraft Co.

Peddlar has been doing commercial flying in Lincoln since the spring of 1924. He learned to fly under Earl Daugherty at Long Beach, Calif., but has served most of his time in the air while living in Lincoln.

Peddlar is at Flint, Mich., at the present time flying a plane for Mr. Page.

The telegram received here merely said that Peddlar was to make the flight, was going to Detroit at once to test a plane, and asked that Mr. Page send Robert Cochran to take Peddlar's place at Flint.

According to Mr. Page, Auggie Peddlar is an especially competent and daring birdman. One of his favorite stunts is to demonstrate the Lincoln Sport plane by taking off from the pricipal business streets of large cities.

Peddlar's plane for the Pacific hop will have the same kind of motor as in the two planes which recently crossed the Atlantic. It will carry 650 gallons of gasoline. The Pacific trip is not as long as the one taken by either Lindbergh or Chamberlin, but it is considered more hazardous. The pilots must travel much farther over water than did the Atlantic birdmen and, should winds carry them off the course, there is great danger of missing the islands entirely.

Prizes of $75,000 have already been offered to the first man who makes the trip, $25,000 by James Dole, the "pineapple king," and $50,000 by San Francisco men. Los Angeles is also raising a fund to start fliers from that city.

Already there are more than thirty unofficial entries for the flight, which will probably develop into a race with all of the planes leaving about the first of August. Lindbergh has been asked to compete, but his answer has not yet been received.

SAYS LAVINDAR IS MAN WANTED

State Sheriff Questioning Men About Buff Rasnick Murder.

FALLS CITY, Neb., June 11—(By the Associated Press.) — Clarence Lavindar is one of five men wanted for the murder of Buff Rasnick, declared State Sheriff W. T. Condit here today.

Lavindar has failed to even attempt to establish an alibi and will not state his whereabouts on the day of the murder, Condit said. Rasnick was killed on the outskirts of the city June 6, last year during a bandit raid on a dice game. Only three of the sixty odd participants or bystanders in the game appeared for questioning today.

Condit issued a plea to all residents of the city who were at the scene of the game on that day. "We are not interested in prosecuting anyone for gambling," he said. "What we want is the solution of this murder and you owe it to your home and your families to bring the murderers to justice."

Crowd Breaks Through

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Lindbergh's triumphal journey up Pennsylvania avenue was halted soon after it started today when the enthusiastic crowds broke through the lines and blocked the parade.

No Firecrackers To Be Sold Until Week Before 4th

It was decided at an informal session of the city council Saturday morning in the mayor's office that no fire works may be sold earlier than a week before the Fourth of July. Their use will be restricted to the night before. A resolution fixing the limitations will be approved by the council Monday, according to Mayor Hedge.

BURGLARS GET SMALL AMOUNT AT CORTLAND

Break Into Postoffice and Carry Off Stamps and Money.

ATTEMPT MADE AT BEATRICE FAILURE

Two robberies, one of which was successful, were pulled by burglars in Gage county Friday night. The Cortland postoffice was robbed of $60 in cash and stamps, while an attempt to blow a safe in a laundry at Beatrice resulted in a failure. No clues that would lead to the identity of the robbers were left at either place.

The postoffice at Cortland was entered sometime between 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning, according to Postmaster Herman W. Lilrich. He stated Saturday noon that the back door of the building had been "jimmied' and a locked money drawer, in which stamps and small change were kept, broken into. Nothing else was taken from the office.

An attempt was made to blow the safe at the Kimball laundry at Beatrice, according to B. E. Drummond, owner. The robbers for some unknown reason fled before gaining entrance to the safe. A quantity of nitroglycerin and burglar's tools were found in the laundry office Saturday morning, Mr. Drummond said. It is believed that the attempt was made sometime after midnight, as two men were seen loitering in the vicinity of the office about that time.

NEBRASKA CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

Winter Wheat Condition 27 Per Cent Better Than 1926.

Reserve Moisture Supply Boosting Forecast of Corn Yield.

Nebraska crop prospects are excellent, according to the June crop report of the Nebraska division of agricultural statistics of the U. S. division of crop and livestock estimates

A heavy winter wheat crop seems assured; corn is late, but otherwise is promising; hay crops and pastures are excellent, but late seeding of spring grain crops has reduced the prospects somewhat, says the report.

The condition of winter wheat is 91 per cent as compared to 94 per cent last month, 64 per cent a year ago and 74 per cent for the ten-year average. There was a little deterioration in some south central and southwestern counties, but recent rains have improved the situation. Some southeastern counties are short of moisture also, but elsewhere the condition is improved. The straw is heavy and the heads are long. With very few exceptions, the moisture supply is ample to mature the crop. Conditions are favorable for another record crop in western panhandle counties.

The June forecast of winter wheat is 62,353,000 bushels as compared to 37,165,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 42,618,000 bushels. The present forecast has been exceeded only by the wheat crops of 1914, 1915 and 1916 and there is yet a possibility of a record wheat (winter) crop this year.

The condition of spring wheat is 88 per cent as compared to 83 per cent a year ago. The bulk of the crop is grown in the northwestern quarter of the state and conditions are ideal there. An increased acreage may be expected.

Corn Two Weeks Late

Corn averages nearly two weeks late. Planting was completed about June 1. Considerable corn was replanted. The moisture supply is ample, but the weather is too cool. Cut worms are doing considerable damage. Acreage will be slightly less. The prospects are very good considering the reserve moisture supply, and the large supply of plant food since last year's short crop took but little.

Rye is rated at 92 per cent as compared to 86 per cent, the ten-year average. This indicates a production of 4,203,000 bushels as compared to 2,606,000 bushels last year and the five-year average of 2,712,000 bushels. Considerable of the rye in eastern Nebraska was pastured and will not be harvested.

Most of the oats are very late and as a rule the odds are against late oats in Nebraska due to hot July weather at the time they are filling. Some of the early planted oats are heading and are very promising. The condition is 84 per cent.

Condition of barley is 83 per cent. A little drouth in some southwest-

PAIR GET $3,000 TO $4,000 IN BOLD ROBBERY AT NOON

President Kingery and Four Customers Forced Into Vault While Holdups Coolly Search for Currency and Cash —Escape in Spite of Ringing Burglar Alarm.

TILDEN, Neb., June 11—(By the Associated Press)—Two unmasked men entered the First National bank of this place about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, forced President J. M. Kingery and Joe Rotter, customer, into the vault and escaped with between $3,000 and $4,000 in currency and silver.

Mr. Kingery and Mr. Rotter were alone in the bank when the two men entered and, at the point of guns, commanded both of them to put up their hands, and enter the vault. One of the bandits then commanded Mr. Kingery to bring out all ready cash in the vault, which he did.

While the robbery was taking place, Ralph Jones, and Dick Steples, both of Tilden, entered the bank. They were also forced into the vault. Shortly after Jones and Steples entered the vault, Stephen Stanton, who heard the burglar alarm, set off by Mr. Kingery, entered the bank and was also forced to enter the vault which had five occupants before the bandits finished their looting.

In Bank Ten Minutes.

The bandits appeared to be cool and quietly committed the robbery, remaining in the bank about ten minutes.

Calmly leaving the front door of the bank, the bandits got into a Buick roadster, bearing a South Dakota license and drove fairly slowly until they reached the outskirts of Tilden. Then they speeded up, traveling on highway No. 8.

About 1:50 o'clock this afternon Tilden authorities received a message from a farmer living about twelve miles south east of Meadow Grove, saying that a car thought to have been the one in which the bandits are traveling, was seen.

Both of the bandits are tall, one being dark and heavy set, while the other was slender and dark. One wore a bluish-grey suit and had a felt hat.

'Babe' Raps Nineteenth

NEW YORK, June 11—(I. N. S.)—Babe Ruth, King of swat, cracked out his nineteenth homer of the season in the third inning of the series opener with Cleveland here today. It came in the third inning and was made off "Gob" Buckeye.

NOT BANDIT CAR

NORFOLK, June 11 — (AP)—The automobile found abandoned here was not the one used by bandits who held up a bank at Huron, S. D., it has been established. The car which was found in the western part of the city several hours before the holdup occurred was stolen at Aberdeen.

The fact that the car was not used by the holdups turned the search for the robbers from this vicinity, to the north and it is now believed that they made for Minneapolis and St. Paul.

MAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLT

DILLER, Neb., June 11—Ben Henrichs, 38, son of John Henrichs, wealthy prominent farmer of the Diller vicinity, was struck by lightning at 8 o'clock this morning during an electrical storm and instantly killed.

Henrichs was standing on the front porch of his home at Fairbury when struck. He leaves his father, mother, brothers, a wife and small children, all of this vicinity.

DEATH FOLLOWS AUTO ACCIDENT

Norfolk Man Struck By Car Fails to Regain Consciousness.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 11—(By the Associated Press)—Orre Holmes, about 65, passed away this morning about two o'clock in a local hospital, to which he was taken last evening about 6:30 o'clock after being struck by an automobile driven by Harry Taaffe, Omaha traveling salesman.

Mr. Holmes suffered a fractured skull and two broken legs when struck by the machine. He passed away without regaining consciousness. He also suffered a possible broken neck, hospital attendants stated.

After the accident, Taaffe voluntarily appeared at the police station.

BANKING RESERVE SHOWS DECREASE

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)— The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows a deficit in reserve of $26,419,530. This is a decrease in reserve of $22,908,450, and compares with the week before with a deficit in reserve of $3,511,080, it was reported.

STUDENT ENDS LIFE.

DANVILLE, June 11— (AP) —Following a quarrel with his brother over which should repair a punctured auto tire last night, Bruce Slozius, 19, student at Westville high school, went to his room and shot himself, dying fifteen minutes later.

Phil Aitken Seven Up On Joe Brown In City Finals

Phil Aitken, Country Club and city golf champion in 1926, is well on his way to another capital city title. Crossing clubs Saturday morning on the Country Club course with Joe Brown, Eastridge champion, in the first 18-hole round of the city tournament finals, Aitken shot his way to an advantage of 7 up.

The 1926 champion was at top form, starting with birdie threes on the first two holes, shooting another birdie on No. 15 and lacking only two strokes of equalling par for the course. Aitken's card totaled 74 for the 18 holes.

Brown Stages Rally.

Brown's game picked up on the inward trip and he rounded out the morning play by winning the last two holes and shooting a birdie three on No. 18, his ball hanging on the lip of the cup and finally tumbling in.

Aitken and Brown were scheduled to tee off at 2 p. m. for the second and last 18-hole round. Cards of the morning play:

CHILD KIDNAPED ON BUSY STREET

Boy Stolen in New York City by Grandfather, Says Father.

NEW YORK, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—Ten - year - old Jacob Murdock Denny was kidnaped by four men on a busy street Friday while out for a stroll with his stepmother, Mrs. Elsie Denny, and his chow dog. The men whisked the boy away in a large touring car, of expensive make, amid the startled outcries of the shoppers at Third avenue and Forty-ninth street.

The child's father, a real estate agent, said he believed the kidnaping was "purely a family affair," and he thought the four men were private detectives. He asserted that the boy's grandfather, Jacob Murdock of Johnstown, Pa., had been trying to get custody of the boy since the mother's death eight years ago, and that up to a year or so ago the child had lived with the grandfather in Pennsylvania.

Welcome for New Salvation Army Workers Planned

A special welcome meeting for Adjutant and Mrs. Charles Ward, new officials for the Lincoln corps of the Salvation Army, will be held Sunday morning and evening at the Salvation Army chapel, Eleventh and Q streets. Mr. and Mrs. Ward come to take up the work of Ensign and Mrs. Malcolm Keene, who are on a three-months' furlough visiting in Phoenix, Ariz.

On their return, they will take up state work at the Omaha headquarters. It is understood they will be in charge of the financial department.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward come to Lincoln from Omaha, where they have been in general charge of relief work. They have carried on work in three states, Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska, and have had sixteen appointments. They have been stationed at Chicago and Aurora, Ill., Detroit, Lansing and Jackson, Mich., and have organized corps work in Chicago Heights, Niles, Mich., and Lunington, Mich.

They have completed one year of successful work in Omaha. They plan to reorganize the Salvation Army band, and will continue the general work of Mr. and Mrs. Keene with relief work as their primary object.

BURGLARS VISIT SERVICE STATION

The N. S. service station, located at the corner where the South Fourteenth street road turns west to Crete, was entered by burglars Friday vening and articles of small value secured.

The station was entered through a window, and missing articles include a tire, spark plugs, candy and cigars. Entrance was made some time after 9:30 last night. The marshal at Sprague is investigating.

PAVING PROTEST

T. S. Allen, attorney for the W. J. Bryan estate, Saturday filed with the city clerk a protest against the passage of an ordinance creating a paving district on that section of Cotner boulevard from South street to Fifty-sixth and Randolph streets.

The principal objection is that if the paving is forced through, the cost to the Bryan estate will be $25,000, and confiscatory. It also is claimed that the property will not be benefitted.

The ordinance is scheduled for third reading at the Monday session of the council.

FILLEY SPEAKS TO GRADUATES

Discusses Initiative in Address at Eighth Grade Exercises.

More than five hundred students, parents and teachers crowded into, around and about the Social Science auditorium Friday evening to see the Lancaster county eighth grade graduation exercises. There were 144 districts represented, four parochial schools and one orthopedic. While only 101 graduates were registered, approximately 300 were present. Miss Charlotte Alexander, county superintendent, presented the diplomas.

Prof. H. C. Filley of Lincoln, in his address to the graduates on 'What Next", stressed initiative for future constructive work.

"Initiative," he said, "is doing a job without being told." He explained that it was initiative that helped Andrew Carnegie, in the course of protective tariff, and in his accumulation of wealth, and it was purely initiative that aided Henry Ford in becoming the wealthiest man in the United States.

"What are you going to do next?" he asked. Mr. Filley gave a brief outline and description of the practical courses that the graduate would meet in the oncoming year. In stressing the importance of high school, he divided the students into classes: Some that need no coaxing; some that get things done; and some that need urging.

Miss Velda Stuteit, ten year old girl from the Sprague-Martel school, gave, perhaps, the feature number of the opening exercise, a vocal solo. She sang "Nebraska." The Walton quartet, composed of Lucile Knight, Leila Hauser, Lenard Keim, and Marvin Ketelhut, sang. Two piano solos were given by Miss Maxine Black, and Miss Fern Teachman.

SCORE DROWNED IN CLOUDBURST

Kentucky Mountain Towns Struggle to Recover From Flood.

FLEMING, Ky., June 10—(By the Associated Press.)—Residents of Letcher county, having buried their dead, victims of the cloudburst which sent an avalanche of waters sweeping over the mountain section of eastern Kentucky, are trying to repair property damage estimated at $1,500,000. Twenty-one lives thus far have been reported lost in this country, while more than 100 homes have been destroyed and 700 persons made homeless.

While the flood sufferers are shoveling mud from the streets and homes of the mountain towns, building bridges and repairing roads, Red Cross workers are tute and in guarding against typhoid equally busy among the destifever and other diseases expected to follow in the wake of the flood. Because the water which swept the district receded so quickly, medical officers said, the danger of epidemics has been lessened greatly and it is thought the sanitary situation is well under control.

Militiamen are guarding the Louisville & Nashville railroad tracks, the Red Cross supply trains and warehouses and are on police duty in the town of Hazard, although there has been no trouble from looters.

So far it has been impossible to send supplies into Carr's Fork valley, containing more than 5,000 persons, hundreds of whom were driven from their homes.

CHICAGO CAR MEN MAY CALL STRIKE

Traction Officials and Employes Disagree—22,000 to Be Affected.

CHICAGO, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—With traction officials and employes deadlocked over a requested 15 cents an hour wage increase, and with union officials backed by an overwhelming vote of confidence, a street car and elevated lines strike seems possible for Chicago within the next fortnight.

Twenty-two thousand conductors and motormen would be involved.

At a referendum Thursday, members of the surface lines union voted, 11,961 to 162, to let the union leaders follow whatever course they thought best to achieve a satisfactory wage settlement. The union leaders said that unless the demands are granted the strike will be called in a week or two.

OMAHA FILLING STATION BANDITS HEAD THIS WAY

Lincoln police were notified to be on the lookout for two bandits who held up a filling station at Omaha at 6:15 Saturday morning and obtained $40. The bandits were driving a gray roadster with a Kansas license. Each of the men carried automatic revolvers. It was thought by the Omaha police that the bandits were headed toward Lincoln.

Four Boys Rescued

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—Towed to shore by a life line from a hydroplane, four young Sea Scouts were rescued from Lake Michigan yesterday after their sail boat had capsied. The boys, Wallace Reid, David McCall, John Snite and Harry Roman, all 16, were seen clinging to their upturned boat by a motorist who notified the naval station. Lieutenant Fred Priestman went to their rescue in the hydrophane, throwing them the life line and towing them to shore.

MANILA.—(AP)—The third American expeditionary force to China, consisting of 1,150 marines, fifty trucks, twenty-five tanks and an aviation unit, sailed for Shanghai Friday from Olangapo. It is due in Shanghai next Monday. Col., H. C. Lavis commands the force.

Teachers Believing In Evolution Must Leave Iowa School

DES MOINES, Ia., June 11—(AP)—"Modernism in all its forms will be routed out of "Des Moines university as it will be operated under the Bible Union of North America, which recently took over the entire institution, a statement issued Friday night by the new board of trustees declared.

The institution is to be "true in all particulars to the historic Baptist position," the statement said. "The trustees decided that "no one would be retained on the staff who believed in evolution in the sense that man was developed from a lower animal ancestry; nor will anybody be permitted to teach in any department whose teaching would deny the divine inspiration and infallibility of the Bible as the word of God."

The faculty committee of the board of trustees yesterday interviewed members of the faculty and found "many in accord with the Bible union position," the statement continued. Some members will not be continued in their present positions, the trustees added.

Two resignations were announced among old members of the faculty, but whether they were caused by a refusal to subscribe to the fundamentalist decrees or other reasons could be learned neither from the trustees nor the resigned members.

Missouri Pacific Makes Changes in Summer Schedule

A number of changes in time in Missouri Pacific passenger train schedules are announced by President L. W. Baldwin. These changes constitute improved summer passenger train schedules and become effective at 12:10 a. m. June 12, President Baldwin stated.

The changes which affect Lincoln are that train No. 606 will leave Union at 5:40 a. m., instead of 7 a. m., and arrive in Lincoln at 7:30 a. m. instead of 9 a. m. This same train will leave here at 11:30 p. m. beginning Sunday instead of 11 p. m. to arrive at Union at 1:12 a. m. instead of 1 a. m.

No. 106 will leave Omaha at 11:59 p. m. instead of 11:45 p. m. and arrive at Kansas City at 7:15 a. m. as at present.

No. 104 will leave Omaha at 9 a. m. instead of 8:45 and arrive in Kansas City at 3:55 p. m. as at present.

Train No. 103 now arriving at Omaha at 7:15 a. m. will arrive at 7:10 a. m..

Other time changes affect trains Nos. 11 and 12, the Scenic Limited between Denver and St. Louis, and Nos. 13 and 14 between these two cities; No. 31 and 32 between Osawatomie and Pueblo; No. 413-14 between Wichita and Salina; No. 431 Wichita to Kanapolis; No. 20, the Sunflower, between Wichita and St. Louis, and No. 218 from Joplin to Wichita.

Actress May Have Branded Self With K's, Police Believe

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 11—(AP)—The story of Doris Williams, known on the stage as Doris Dore, that an "Ape-like" man had branded her with the letter "K," lost more weight with police Friday as they continued to check up on the angles which they said made them suspicious of its truth.

Miss Williams, who was announced Thursday, following the alleged razor slashing by a man who forced an entry into her apartment, as having also played in motion picture parts recently, Friday was declarde by Fred W. Beetson, secretary of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, never to have been listed as a film actress or extra.

The branding, with the exception of the "K" on the forehead, was described by the police as appearing to have been made with a needle or pin instead of a keen blade as the actress declared.

They also pointed out as significant the fact that the letters were mostly made backwards. They read as "K" only when viewed in a mirror. Those on the arms were scratched in regular form.

George Lamonte, film actor with whom the actress said she had a slight quarrel late Wednesday, was quoted by the police as saying that a week ago Miss Williams expressed the desire to "pull a daring publicity stunt."

IOWA LAND NEAR NEBRASKA CITY 'EATEN' BY RIVER

(Special to The Star.)

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. June 10—Nearly a quarter section of rich Iowa farm land located seven miles north of Nebraska City on the Iowa side has been "eaten" up by the Missouri river during the past four weeks. Mrs. Lynn Driscoll lost 30 acres and Mrs. Joseph Treat more than 80 acres. Much of the land had been planted to corn.

Prior to the May rise, the river in this region ran almost straight north and south, residents of the community declare, but following the recession a deep bend was cut into the farm land, the river taking an easterly course.

It was said late Thursday that the farm of Rev. H. L. House of Omaha, south of the Treat land was in danger of going into the river as the stream is cutting rapidly only a short distance to the north.

The river has been rising gradually at this point for seevral days.

NEED ECONOMY TO SLASH TAXES COOLIDGE SAYS

President Believes Further Cut Futile If Expenditures Grow.

Largest Surplus Piled Up By Treasury Since War Forecast.

WASHINGTON, June 11 — (By the Associated Press.) — The largest surplus piled up by the treasury since the war was forecast last night by President Coolidge to government officials at the semi-annual budget meeting, but he warned that the margin of about $600,000,000 in sight could not be turned over entirely to tax reduction.

Decreases in tax rates also must hinge, the president insisted, upon strict limitation of government expenditures to approximately the present level.

Not only will the surplus for this fiscal year, ending June 30, exceed the high post-war record set in 1924 by more than $100,000,000, but Mr. Coolidge declared a margin of $338,000,000 was in sight for next year.

Not Available In Future.

While such a surplus would exceed the administration's previous estimates, except that made a few days ago by Secretary Mellon, and accords with predictions of those who urged greater tax reduction a year ago, the president explained that much of the margin was accumulated through the return to the treasury of capital assets and in other items which would not be available for receipts in the future.

His address was delivered in Memorial Continental hall and as usual cabinet members and the executive heads of all government agencies were in attendance. Director Lord of the budget followed the president with a demand for a curtailment of expenses during the coming year. Elimination of waste must be depended upon, he said, to offset in part increasing costs of the government.

As a guide to the future, he said, however, that this year's surplus was of doubtful value, because it included a number of extraordinary receipts that could not be counted on for more than a limited period. He cited among these extraordinary items delayed income tax payments, railroad receipts, the capital stock tax and collections from farm loans bonds.

"In considering the possibility of tax reduction," he said, "we must keep in mind that our revenue laws cannot be written from the standpoint of a single year, but must be expected to yield adequate revenue over a period of years. It is essential therefore to discount temporary and non-recurring items and to base the estimated revenue on those resources which can be looked upon as essentially permanent in character.

Present Revenue Ample.

"We have no fear our present revenue laws will not produce ample income to carry on the business of the government. But this does not justify an enlargement of our expenditure program. Rather does it dictate and demand that we make renewed effort to keep within our present expenditures. One thing is certain. Unless we succeed in holding expenditures at about their present level, hope of further tax reduction will be gone.

"In the face of each of the three reductions in taxes since the fiscal year 1921 we have continued to accumulate surpluses at the end of each year. We should not overlook, however, the great influence these surpluses have had in making tax reduction possible. Their application to the further reduction of the public debt has permanently reduced our interest charges. It has been an investment for the people of their own money. In the business of government, as in private business, the time to liquidate indebtedness is in the time of prosperity. The reduction of fixed charge serves a twofold purpose. It materially assists in maintaining prosperity and would be particularly helpful in adversity."

Discussing the benefits of the budget system the president said that "elimination of non-essentials and direct savings have about reached their limit."

Desires Tax Cut.

"We are striving as always to pave the way for further reduction of debt and taxes," he said. "This in itself necessitates unremitting effort to hold the level of our expenditure program. After careful study of our probabl financial condition in 1929, it is my desire that the estimates of appropriations for the year be held within a total of $3,300,000,000. This is exclusive of reduction of the debt, the postal service, and tax refunds. This maximum has not been fixed arbitrarily. It is the result of careful study of probable financial conditions in 1929.

Referring to the Mississippi valley flood, Mr. Coolidge said that "all that possibly can be done to alleviate distress and suffering is being done."

"As it develops that additional funds are required for this purpose I am confident they will be provided," he declared. "Control measures that were considered by all as ample to full protection have proven inadequate. Such a disaster must never happen again. A survey is now being made to determine what is needed. That survey will be laid before congress.

"From a business standpoint we must anticipate from this disaster a reduction in our prospective revenue and an increase in our prospective expenditures. I am confident this will be an added incentive to effect savings elsewhere."

Lord Pleads For Economy.

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Estimating that governmental expenditures for the current fiscal year would be kept under $3,000,000,000, Director Lord, of the budget bureau last night called on department heads and bureau chiefs to continue efforts to curtail expenses during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"The last estimate of the current year, made within a few days," he said at the semi-annual budget meeting, "promises a surplus of $598,974,254, to which you have made generous contributions with an expenditure brought down and held down to $2,975,235,050, which is $73,000,000 less than we spent in 1924, and $25,000,000 less than our $3,000,000,000 limit. This has been effected, not only by curtailment of expenditures, but by stubbornly holding the line and preventing increases. And this year we have had to provide additional millions for new needs arising from conditions not susceptible of administrative control."

Describing the work of the budget bureau, Director Lord asserted: "Waves of new expenditures as a result of new legislation and continued legitimate growth and development of federal business have swept over the economy boat and threatened to sink it, but steady constant throwing over of waste and continued stopping of leaks have kept it afloat, notwithstanding accumulating expenditures at times have gained slightly. And we are still bailing and plugging leaks."

Interspersing his speech with anecdotes, Director Lord told of the crusader whose contribution to conservation of the forests had been the slaying of a woodpecker, and inaugurated the Loyal Order of Woodpeckers. He asked each of the 546,000 persons on the government active payroll to become a member of the order, filling the membership requirement by "tapping away at waste." If each employe saves but one dollar by economies, he declared, "the humble woodpecker will be given a place in history as a symbol of a great national thrift crusade."

A saving of more than $18,000,000 was effected, General Lord said, through allowing 2 or more per cent of vacancies in various offices to remain vacant.

WOMAN AIR PILOT OFFERS PRAISE TO AMERICAN FLIERS

BERLIN, June 11—(AP)—To be in time for the dinner dance given in honor of Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine by the American club last night and to pay her respects to the American aviators, Thea Rasche, Germany's only licensed woman air pilot, sped to Berlin yesterday in her Udet Flamingo stunt plane.

The moment she arrived at Tempelhofer airfield, she rushed to inspect the trans-Atlantic plane over which she exclaimed enthusiastically while marveling at its smallness.

As a compliment to the American fliers, Fraulein Rasche will perform flying stunts for their benefit on the occasion of their departure to Munich Sunday, such as looping the loop and rolling. If her machine proves fast enough, she may accompany the American aviators on their flight.

"Chamberlin's achievement is simply fabulous,' she exclaimed. "I have unbounded respect and admiration for his daring feat."

Short News.

Nathan Straus Recovers.

Lady Astor Defends Eve.

By Arthur Brisbane.

Some of the news runs, briefly, as follows:

Charles A. Levine, who flew the ocean, will spend $2,000,000 on trans-Atlantic air lines. Success to him.

Governor Frank O. Lowden's supporters say he ought to be nominated in 1928 and will organize "Lowden for President" clubs all over the country to oppose Calvin Coolidge.

President Coolidge will go fishing.

John Drew has a relapse and doctors are worried. He is 73 years old. He has given pleasure to many of his fellow citizens.

New York will authorize a building 101 stories high. Men should find out how high they really can build.

A Lindbergh tower in Chicago, more than 1,300 feet high, will prove Mayor Thompson's determination "to make Chicago first in everything."

A prison doctor says Earl Carroll, carried into the penitentiary on a stretcher, only "imagines" he is ill. Christian science will tell him all ills are imagination and error, none real.

That doesn't make them less unpleasant.

Nathan Straus has recovered from his illness, and will leave the hospital in two or three days. This is good news to thousands of mothers who owe their children's lives to the intelligent, scientific charity of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus.

Patent pockets for bathing suits will keep matches and lipsticks dry. That will interest thousands not at all interested in "artificial creation of life."

Great Britain will try a 5,000-mile air hop, from England to Asia. Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Levine have started things.

Field Marshal Haig says Great Britain really won the war, and could have won it without the help of the United States.

That won't hurt Uncle Sam's feelings, if our friends across the ocean will kindly pay back the money they borrowed. History will say that France won the war. Without France, England would never have "got started" and a Hohenzollern prince might have moved to Buckingham palace.

Emil Ludwig, who wrote a good book about Napoleon, now calls the German ex-kaiser a "poor, nervous man who never was the war lord, or demon of war, he was said to be." This annoys German nationalists, who want another Hohenzollern dose.

Lady Astor, a Virginia girl in Britain's parliament, and a credit to the United States every day, feels about Adam just as Ludwig feels about the kaiser. Eve, says Lady Astor, was an angel compared to Adam, who was nothing but a weakling. Eve was the first "protestor." "She wanted knowledge and refused to live in a fool's pradise."

Sir Oliver Lodge, who believes in ghosts and spirits, says that with synthetic protoplasm life can be created in the laboratory. This, says Lodge, does not belittle God's power, for man is God's creation, and might well imitate His maker on a small scale.

He might, but he won't. That is, he will not create the only life that counts, the life that thinks.

Real life is thought, not matter.

EXECUTIONS OF 20 TERRORISTS AROUSE BRITISH

Soviet Charges of English Espionage Called "Absurd."

Russia Seeking to Institute Reign of Terror, Says London.

LONDON, June 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The world now has an example of the bolshevik mentality at its worst, it was remarked in British official circles with reference to the execution of twenty persons in Moscow on charges of anti-soviet activities, including that of furnishing information to the British diplomatic mission in Moscow.

Dismissing the soviet charges against the British government as "absurd and ridiculous," officials here declare that the British government does not stoop to such plots as trying to blow up the Kremlin. The officials assert that the objectives sought by the soviet authorities in carrying out the score of death sentences is the same as they have been in previous critical moments of the bolshevik regime — namely, to institute a reign of terror and also to make a false appeal to the Russians' sense of nationalism by making them believe that Russia is menaced by foreign powers.

According to the British view, with no freedom of speech and consequently with no public opinion in Russia, the soviet government has been able to gain support even from its enemies within Russia by continually emphasing that the soviet union is in danger from Baltic states and from the great European powers.

At the British foreign office, where it is emphatically denied that the British government had any relations with the persons whose execution was announced in Moscow, the Associated Press was informed Friday that the members of the British mission which has just been recalled from Moscow had taken great care during its stay in the soviet capital not to associate with Russians because "all Russians in Russia who are friendly to foreigners invariably are suspected of espionage."

British officials express belief that the assassination of soviet Minister Voikoff at Warsaw will not impair Russo-Polish relations. In fact, it is considered here that the soviety government has taken the Voikoff assassination and the anglo-soviet break as an excuse for executing Russians against whom it previously had been unable to "concoct even the flimsiest charges."

Moscow in Turmoil.

MOSCOW, Russia, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—The execution of twenty persons accused of counter revolutionary activities against the soviet regime, announced in an official communique made public Friday, has caused consternation throughout the soviet union among former members of the Russian nobility and exarmy officers, many of whom are still within the borders of the union.

Last night there was evidence of suppressed excitement in Moscow, an excitement that was not allayed by the frequent passage about the city of police wagons and the presence of reinforced guards at important government institutions.

Contrary to reports in the United States, the name of George Sidney Riley, believed to have been a captain in the British Royal Flying corps, does not appear on the list of those executed as given out by the authorities. Inquiry appeared to show that Riley, who was arrested on the Finnish border in 1925 was still a prisoner.

The official communique telling of the executions, as made public Friday, was as follows:

"In view of the open transition to terrorism and destructive struggle by monarchist and white guardist elements, acting from abroad on instructions and with funds from foreign intelligence services, the collegium of the state political department passed death sentences at its session of June 9 on twenty persons, and the sentences have been carried out."

HICKMAN, VARGO MEET DEATH BY ELECTROCUTION

COLUMBUS, O., June 11—(AP)—John Hickman and George Vargo, convicted murderers, were electrocuted last night in the Ohio penitentiary. Hickman died at 9:07 p. m., and Vargo at 9:17. Neither man faltered as he approached the chair.

Vargo was convicted of killing Mrs. Katherine Sabo, his landlady, in an altercation over boarding house fare.

Hickman was found guilty of the slaying of Daniel Garrett, Chillicothe, O., policeman.

MODERNISM HAS MADE NO INROADS PASTOR ASSERTS

JUNIOR CHAMBER DUES INCREASED

Spirited Contest Takes Place On Floor Of Convention.

OMAHA, June 11—(By the Associated Press) — An increase in dues to $1 istead of a projected $2 was voted by the board of directors of the United States junior chamber of commerce early today. The vote climaxed a spirited fight featured by a filibuster.

Proposals submitted to increase the fees to $2 and include a compulsory subscription to "Expansion," the chamber organ, were divided. After a parliamentary tangle lasting 50 minutes the increase in dues from 35 cents to $1 was approved overwhelmingly, leaving the magazine subscription optional.

Leading the fight for "Expansion" were Tulsa and Dallas delegates, including President R. E. Condon, who called H. Grady Vien of East St. Louis to the chair. Opposition through a filibuster was led by the Florida delegates, backed by those from Milwaukee and Chicago.

A roll call vote on including the magazine subscription, which required two-third majority for passage, was announced 63 to 58 for the subscription. Leaders of the filibuster were J. J. Twomey of Tampa and D. B. Fincannon of Jacksonville. I. D. Mosley of Tulsa criticised their actions as "not those of business men and executives."

Four hundred young women, including 60 from Lincoln, were guests of the United States junior chamber of commerce at an amusement park here last night.

A frolic staged was the biggest event of the convention week program.

Continuous dancing was interupted only by the barbecue for which "Gwendolyn," junior chamber heifer from Wood Lake, Neb., provided the beef.

CONDITIONS IN MIDDLE WEST ARE CONSIDERED GOOD

OMAHA, June 11—(AP)—Conditions in the middle west, particularly in the tenth federal reserve bank district, are sound, according to Governor W. J. Bailey of the federal reserve bank of Kansas City, who with directors and official of the federal institution were in Omaha today for their annual inspection of the Omaha reserve bank.

Governor Bailey said that the only disturbing element in the country is the extensive speculation on Wall street, which does not affect the tenth reserve district.

This district, he said, is on a safe and sane basis with no boom or deflation period forecast. Prospect for crops are very good as a rule.

Mr. Bailey said that the drift of population to cities from farms is on the increase, but that one farmer is doing as much as two formerly did, due to a more scientific study of agriculture.

MANY PRESENT AT HAMPTON FUNERAL

HAMPTON, Neb., June 11—Masons from all over Nebraska and hundreds of friends and neighbors gathered Friday to pay their last tribute to Stephen C. Houghton. The funeral was held at the home and burial was in the Hampton cemetery. Rev. George Weber of Albuquerque, N. M., preached the funeral sermon. Miss Cora Conoway of York sang several songs. At the grave, Fred Christensen of Grand Island, former master of the Hampton lodge, conducted the Masonic service. Stephen C. Houghton had been for many years one of the outstanding men of Hamilton county. He was a leader in the republican party in his part of the county and was always prominent in all public affairs. Mr. Houghton was 49 years of age when he died in the hospital at York. He left surviving him his widow and one brother and two sisters.

VETERAN TEACHER FINALLY RETIRES

Miss Rawles Given Handsome Testimonial Prior to Leaving For Europe.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., June 11—Miss Juletta Rawles, who completed forty-two years of teaching in the Beatrice high school with commencement this year, has retired from teaching and left Saturday on an extended tour of European points.

As a testimonial of their appreciation of her long service in the schools, alumni of the high school, teaching associates and other friends joined to give her a present of money sufficient to defray her expenses while abroad. This was delivered to Miss Rawles yesterday, a draft for $2,011.50. R letter to as many of the alumni as could be located was sent out notifying them of the project to give Miss Rawles a farewell, and the response was very generous. The letters received from alumni and others were presented to Miss Rawles along with the draft for the money.

During the years that Miss Rawles has been with the schools as assistant principal more than 2,000 graduates have received their diplomas.

Delivery of the package of letters and of the present of money was made Friday morning by the committee of alumni and friends who met Miss Rawles at the high school by appointment. They were S. F. Nicholas, Wallace Robertson, T. A. Woodward, H. T. Weston, D. W. Cook, Julius Gilbert, J. Ed C. Fisher, William Kilpatrick, jr., E. M. Marvin and Clyde Dempster.

Miss Rawles will be accompanied to New York by Miss Reed, a city teacher and from there they will sail for Europe. They expect to make an extended sojourn in London.

THREE HASTINGS MEN FINED FOR USING A SEINE

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., June 11—Three men were found guilty in county court of illegal possession of a seine at Crystal lake on Thursday and were fined $5 and costs each.

The trio vehemently denied any ownership of the seine, and declared that they had been working on the dam at the lake when they saw three men break into a run as they approached.

Upon investigation, they said, they found the seine, and as they were drawing it out and killing entrapped turtles, the deputy warden came up. He ordered them, they said, to report at the court house in Hastings at once, and the seine was brought along as proof of their "guilt."

On the other hand, H. W. LeFever state deputy game warden, declared he had watched the trio at work for more than a half hour before accosting them, and he presented three witnesses to uphold his testimony. He declared he saw no trace of a trio running away from the site.

MAN BADLY HURT BY A CAR CRANK

(Special to The Star.)

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., June 11—A. O. Ruse, an automobile salesman, may lose the sight of one eye, as the result of an automobile "kicking" and the crank hitting him in the face, just above the eye on Thursday. A gash two inches long and clear to the bone was cut.

MARRY AT TECUMSEH.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., June 11—Alfred La Vern Welsh and Miss Velma Richardson, both of the Crab Orchard vicinity, were married at Tecumseh by Rev. W. H. Wright, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson, and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A Welsh. The young couple will make their home at Crab Orchard.

TO TRAINING CAMP.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., June 11—Miss Gladys Kenslar, assistant general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. here, is one of fifteen young women selected from over the United States to attend a national training camp at Portland, Me., June 27 to August 6. Miss Kenslar will leave for Camp Maqua Monday, but will visit for a short time enroute with her parents at Van Wert, O.

NEWSPAPER SOLD.

(Special to The Star.)

EDISON, Neb., June 11—The Edison Echo has been sold to Paul McCoy of Oxford by his brother Donald McCoy. The latter has announced no plans for the future other than his intention to attend summer school at Boulder, Colo., for the next few weeks.

WILL HOLD PICNIC.

(Special to The Star.)

FRANKLIN, Neb., June 11—Preparations are being made for the annual picnic of the Franklin County Farmers union to be held June 18. H. G. Keeney, state president, and A. C. Davis, national secretary, will be the principal speakers.

FUNERAL OF PIONEER.

(Special to The Star.)

OXFORD, Neb., June 11—Funeral services were held Tuesday for John R. Lee, pioneer, who died following an extended illness. He came to this county in 1876 and was employed by the Burlington, when the road was being built, as a foreman of construction. He leaves two sons and three daughters.

COUNTY BOARD OF EQUALIZATION MEETS TUESDAY

The county board of equalization opens its sessions Tuesday morning to hear property owners' complaints on their tax assessments.

It is required by law that the board sit for at least three days and not more than twenty. In this county, the full period usually is required to investigate all cases.

Complaints must be filed with the board by 4 p. m. Saturday, June 18. This arrangement is made so that the complaints may be sorted as to location of the property. The board can then save time and effort in making its inspection trips. The three county commissioners, the assessor and the clerk compose the board.

WEAVER IS NOT READY TO TALK

Says It Is Too Early To Make Announcement of Candidacy.

OMAHA, Neb., June 11—(AP)—That no basis whatever exists for the report that he will not make a fight for the governorship if Speaker James Rodman decides not to run, was declared Friday in Omaha by Arthur J. Weaver, of Falls City.

Mr. Weaver said, however, that the time is not ripe for him to make a statement on the candidates, and added, "when I do, it will be addressed to the people of the state."

Word had reached here today that Weaver would withdraw in favor of Rodman, after he had assured his friends that he intended to file. Mr. Weaver said positively that there is no truth in the report that he had made a definite decision, either to favor Rodman or to run himself.

Mr. Weaver's hesitancy at this time is said to be due to his desire to avoid controversy, a trait which he showed when his name was mentioned for the same office several years ago.

If he persists in the position it is possible that Governor McMullen may push his claim to a third term. The net result if the situation does not clear is expected to be to the advantage of the democratic party, for it is said, many of Weaver's friends are "off" both Rodman and the governor.

WALTHER LEAGUE WILL HOLD RALLY SUNDAY AT CRETE

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., June 11—The summer rally of the Walther League societies of zone 7, an organization of young people of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod, will be held in Tuxedo park, Crete, Sunday afternoon. Eight societies from congregations in Lincoln, Malcolm, Pleasant Dale, Walton, Kramer and Crete will take part in the rally and if weather conditions are favorable it is expected between 800 and 900 will be present. The program, which is to begin at two o'clock, is as follows:

Song, by entire assembly.
Address, Prof. Theo Stelzer of Seward seminary.
Selection, string trio.
Reading.
Selection, zither and violin.
Dialogue.
Selection, ladies quartet.

Following the program there will be indoor baseball and basket lunch.

AUTO DRIVER IS HELD BLAMELESS IN GIRL'S DEATH

OMAHA, June 11—(AP)—Ralph Wayman, driver of the automobile which Wednesday evening struck and fatally injured Margaret McNally, seven year old daughter of Mrs. Mabel McNally, was absolved of blame by a coroner's jury Friday afternoon and releaser from custody.

The evidence showed that the girl started to cross Military avenue at a point about thirteen feet from the intersection, passing around a street car. She is said to have stepped directly into the path of the on-coming automobile.

Several witnesses testified that the acident was unavoidable.

BRIEFLY TOLD NEWS FROM PRESS WIRES

PENDELTON, Ore.—(AP)—Caught in the treacherous current of the Umatilla river while swimming Thursday, Martha Isaakson, 10 years old, was rescued in an exhausted condition several hundred yards down the stream by Rt. Rev. William P. Remington, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of eastern Oregon. Bishop Remington plunged into the water fully clothed when from his home a block from the stream he heard the child cry for help.

CHICAGO.—(AP)—While Walter Scholl was on trial in Valparaiso, Ind., for the murders of his two children, his second wife, Mrs. Marguerite Gibbons Scholl, divorced him Friday. Mrs. Scholl, foster mother of the tots slain by their father, obtained a decree on the grounds of crulety. They were married in Waukegan, in 1923. Scholl, although pleading guilty, obtained attorneys to present mitigating evidence in hope of escaping the death penalty, and has accused his wife of aiding him in planning the slayings. She was taken in custody following the deaths, but was later released.

'SAFE' ENGINEER IS KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS CAR

CHICAGO, June 11 —(AP)— Frank Hutchinson, 65, a locomotive engineer in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad for forty-four years without an accident, decided last week to take a vacation "away from all railroads."

But "getting away" from railroads was not so easy for the "safe engineer," as Hutchinson was known. At Guelph, Ont., he had to drive his automobile across railroad tracks.

There was a crash—

The bodies of Hutchinson and his wife were brought here for burial today.

Mothers' Camp to Be Opened June 14 On Seward Grounds

Extension club leaders in Seward, York, Polk and Lancaster counties are looking forward to the opening of the first of this season's district mothers and leaders vacation camps at the county fair grounds at Seward.

Camp opens Tuesday, June 14, with registration and a getting acquainted period in the afternoon. The supper whistle will call the women to the first of a series of meals which they will not have to help plan or prepare.

In the evening Mrs. C. O. Bruce will have charge of the recreation and story telling periods. Thruout the week she will conduct round tables on child care and will help the women plan stunt night. Stunt night is one of the features about camp which the women especially enjoy. Every group is responsible for a stunt of some kind. A lot of hidden talent and originality is discovered in the plans and preparation. The county song contest and prizes are given to the county presenting the best song.

Along with the fun, the campers will have the opportunity of hearing a number of fine talks. Mrs. E. W. Johnson of Omaha will talk on "Women and Nebraska Laws," and "Let's Talk About our Civic Responsibilities," Mrs. E. C. Mouden of Stromsberg will talk on "What the Farm Bureau has Accomplished."

On the last day of camp which is also visitors day, W. H. Brokaw director of the extension service, will speak on "Our Greatest Need."

These camps are sponsored by the extension service of the college of agriculture. Miss Mary Ellen Brown, state home demonstration leader, is in charge of the camp. Miss Leona Davis is camp treasurer. Each home demonstration club in the counties in this district may be represented by their club leaders. Quarters will be established in the buildings on the fair grounds at Seward.

CHINA PROTESTS MOVING MARINES

Marshal Chang Having Note Prepared Opposing U. S. Policy.

PEKING, China, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—It is learned authoritatively that the Peking foreign office, at the behest of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, is preparing a formal protest to the United States against the dispatch of American marines to Tientsin.

Deny Reports of King Ferdinand's Serious Illness

BUCHAREST, June 11—(AP)—Reports and rumors circulated abroad that King Ferdinand again is seriously ill are declared here not to be founded in fact.

The Associated Press learned yesterday that the sovereign receives guests at lunch daily, takes short strolls in the gardens of his castle and that furthermore former King George of Greece, and his wife, Elizabeth, who is a daughter of the king, left for Rome Thursday night to be absent for a week.

King Ferdinand has been suffering some time from an intestinal malady. Bucharest dispatches received in London Thursday said that his condition was "so critical that fatal termination of the illness appears to be only a question of days."

A Code for Bathers

ROME, June 11—(AP)—A code of morality for bathers has been drafted by the diocesan morality committee of the province of Genoa. Copies have been sent to the municipal authorities of all Italian bathing resorts for their guidance during the present season.

Among the commandments in the code is an order against bathing without clothing, even in secluded spots. Other "don'ts" forbid flirting, wearing abbreviated bathing suits, using profane or obscene language, reading obscene, frivolous or vulgar newspapers, magazines or books; dancing, and leaving the beach attired in a bathing suit or beach wrap.

PRAISES U. S. SINGERS.

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—"There is hardly a voice in Europe that can compare favorably even with the second and third rate voices in America" Cyrena Van Gordon, the prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company, said yesterday following her return from a tour of the music centers of the continent. "The cream of European singers," said Miss Van Gordon, "have been recruited for the American concert stage and opera, and scouters for operatic organizations will find but little material in the old world."

PRISON AGREES WITH CARROLL

Former Host at 'Bathtub' Party, Now No. 24909, to Leave Hospital.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 11—(By the Associated Press) — Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer and one time host at a "bathtub" party, continues to improve and should be discharged from the hospital of the federal prison here in two or three weeks, officials of the prison announced today.

When he is able to be up and about again, No. "24909" will be assigned to a regular "job" during his year and a day stop over here, just as all the other 2,000 or more inmates are assigned to some task to perform. Just what Carroll's assignment will be remains problematical.

"We won't cross that bridge until we get to it," Warden Snook declared. However, as it is customary to assign prisoners to work for which they are best fitted it appears likely that the New Yorker will draw one of the clerical positions at the prison. It is possible, too, that he may find at least one outlet for his esthetic talents. He is understood at present to be the unanimous choice of the other prisoners to direct the prison's annual Christmas show, one of the big events of the year.

Meanwhile, No. 24909 apparently has little interest in his prison career. Ordered to the prison to begin serving his sentence for perjury in connection with a grand jury investigation of his "bathtub" party, after a nervous breakdown aboard train enroute to Atlanta had delayed his incarceration nearly two months, Carroll seems to have lost interest in all about him. Summed up in his own words his attitude is:

"My humiliation is complete. I don't care what happens to me now."

Carroll's ailment has been described by prison physicians as principally "imaginary."

Levine Smiles at New's Criticism Concerning Mail

BERLIN, June 11— (AP) —(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) — Charles A. Levine replied with a smile to questions asked him by press representatives concerning criticism by Postmaster General New with regard to the mail carried by the Columbia on its non-stop Trans-Atlantic flight.

"The insinuation that we carried the mail for the value that the stamps might have to philatelists is simply absurd. The stamps were duly cancelled by the local postal authorities and I fail to see where the postmaster general finds any violation on our part. The fact of the matter is that we intended to present those stamps to historical societies."

Mr. Levine then showed a cable from the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences in which he is requested to distribute the stamps of the flight among historical societies.

GRUEN IS ELECTED CREDIT MEN'S HEAD

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 11—(AP)—George J. Gruen of Cincinnati, was elected president of the National association of Credit Men at the concluding business session of the association's convention here yesterday.

Joseph Hugh Scales, Louisville, was elected as vice president of the central division of the association; J. F. Wood, Richmond, Va., was re-elected vice president of the eastern division, and Frank D. Rock, Denver re-elected vice president of the western division.

Directors elected for three year terms included I. B. Davies, Delavan Wis., and F. B. Atwood, Minneapolis.

The next convention city is expected to be chosen today by the board of directors.

MAZER IS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE

Term Shortened as Man Turned State's Evidence in Mellett Murder Trial.

CANTON, Ohio., June 11—(AP)—Louis Mazer, the first man indicted for the murder last July of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, yesterday took his reward for turning state's evidence in the trial of Floyd E. Streitenberger, and was sentenced to a term in the Ohio penitentiary of from five to twenty years.

Mazer, a Canton dive keeper, was permitted to plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter. He thereby escaped the danger of the fate meted out to Streitenberger, Patrick McDermott and Ben Rudner, all of whom are in the penitentiary for life.

Mazer originally had been promised complete immunity for the part he took in convincing Streitenberger. Later he agreed to a withdrawal of the offer.

Next Monday S. A. Lengel, former chief of the Canton police department will enter his plea to a first degree murder indictment in connection with the Mellett case. He is the fifth man accused.

Nebraskans Active In Defeat of Two California Officers

Returns in the city election held at Alhambra, Calif., one of the smaller cities surrounding Los Angeles, show that Frank A. Harrison, former Lincoln newspaper man and politician, and other ex-Nebraskans residing there were successful in their campaign to oust one of the members of the city commission and the occupant of the city attorney's office, whose administration of municipal affairs had been subjected to severe criticism.

Harrison led the fight against these officials and went gunning for them in the columns of a small paper which he published during the campaign. He charged that wrok on public projects had been awarded at extravagant prices to certain contractors and that paving and sewer cost had been assessed against properties which got little or no benefit in order to provide access to holdings, in which some of the city officials were themselves interested, and make them more valuable.

The election was held last Tuesday, and opponents of the administration are now celebrating their victory.

Chicago Woman Will Fly Across Atlantic When Chance Comes

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—The first middlewestern woman to seek trans-Atlantic flying fame will be Mrs. E. Lewis Campbell of Chicago, if she can find a pilot brave enough to accompany her, she announced Friday.

Mrs. Campbell is the wife of the president of the Chicago flying club and is learning to be a pilot herself. She said that she would hop off in a minute if she finds a pilot to go with her.

"I wouldn't worry about anything," she said. "I'd pull on my flying togs and buy my other clothes in Paris. It wont be long till women will be doing that every day."

Mr. Campbell said he hoped his wife would be the first to make the trip. "I'm enthusiastic about it," he said.

A BOOM FOR LOWDEN IN NEBRASKA.

Far more important than any bearing which it may have nationally will be the local results of Governor McMullen's announcement that an effort is to be made to secure a delegation from Nebraska at the republican national convention pledged and active in support of the potential candidacy of ex-Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois.

By this action Governor McMullen makes it plain he has reached the crossroads with the national leader of his party.

The causes which have led to this split between the spokesmen for the republican party in Nebraska and in the nation are not important. The fact is that Governor McMullen has determined to assert his leadership in Nebraska and to maintain his right to speak for the republicans of this state. As an apostle of high protection, for Governor McMullen insists he is as strongly devoted to the republican principle of the tariff as he ever was, Nebraska's executive finds the Central West placed upon an unequal footing with other sections of the country. By inference he confirms a claim which has been repeatedly made by democrats—namely that the tariff works to the particular advantage of the highly industrial sections of the east.

Thus it is that Governor McMullen turns his back upon that which he formerly recognized as one of the cardinal virtues and blessings of republican administration. He has distinguished company in his sortie against the old guard. Recently Senator Howell has been pecking at the tariff, while Senator Norris has always been against the type of protection which represents the views of the national leaders of his party. And in his rebellion against the Coolidge administration, Governor McMullen will unquestionably have the support of a large number of politicians with axes to grind. So far as the rank and file of the republican party in Nebraska is concerned, there is no evidence at hand to indicate the president is in any degree less popular than when he received an overwhelming vote in the election of 1924. On the contrary it would appear that Mr. Coolidge is stronger with Nebraska republicans than he was then. He has had the advantage of the recognized achievements of his administration. He has come closer to the people in these years and his personality is clear and sharply defined.

Governor McMullen's announcement of his intention to support Lowden for president must be taken to indicate that the former's political ambitions extend beyond his present tenure of office.

It may develop that Mr. McMullen has his eye upon the seat in the United States senate occupied by George W. Norris, which will become vacant in 1930, the date which Mr. Norris has announced for his voluntary retirement. What could be more to his advantage than for the governor to keep his fingers upon the state machine and to continue to occupy his place as the leader of Nebraska republicans?

If it should develop that Mr. Coolidge would decide the danger of running afoul of a buzz saw in the form of sentiment against extending the tenure of a president beyond eight years was too great to hazard, ex-Governor Lowden has the edge on all prospective candidates. And if Mr. Coolidge refused a nomination and Mr. Lowden accepted it, Governor McMullen would be in an extremely favorable position for a cabinet job in the event of Lowden's election. Stranger things have happened before and they may occur again. At any event it must be admitted Governor McMullen is keeping a weather eye upon political possibilities in the next few years.

It would seem Governor McMullen and his associates might have made a much better selection than the "farm relief" issue upon which to wage war against the president. There is no demand in Nebraska for the McNary-Haugen bill. The noise which was made some months ago came from political sources. The real dirt farmer never exhibited more than a passive interest in it, and with the crop season in full blast, he is less concerned with it than ever. The attempt to pump life into the corpse of the McNary-Haugen measure will prove, we believe, a most discouraging and disheartening task. But the governor has accepted the assignment upon his own free will. He must now blaze his own trail in conjunction with those who are at outs with the Coolidge administration or fall back upon the unpleasant alternative of eating humble pie.

BRITISH PENDULUM SWINGS BACK.

At three by-elections held recently in English and Scotch constituencies the liberal party has succeded in electing its candidates over conservative and labor opponents. These results, all in a row, are regarded as a serious threat against the Stanley Baldwin government and an indication that the liberals, now reduced to a poor third place in parliamentary membership, are rapidly recuperating their strength and prestige and may be returned to power at the next general election.

The present tory government has almost a 2 to 1 majority in parliament, while the laborites outnumber the liberals by nearly 3 to 1. Some time ago it looked as though the once powerful party of Gladstone had gone permanently on the political rocks. It was rent by dissensions between the Asquith and Lloyd-George factions, and several of its leading exponents in the house of commons, becoming disgusted with the latter's instability and his repeated bids for labor support, went over to the conservative side. Predictions were freely made that liberalism was done for and that the party would pass out of the British picture within a short period.

Events transpiring at the time show how mistaken those prophecies were. The seers who foretold the finish of the liberal party failed to take account of the fact that in democratically governed countries public opinion may undergo a radical change at any time. Nor did they give due consideration to the fact that the party in power is always likely to make mistakes causing it to forfeit popular favor and support.

It is not due to any particular ability or foresight of its leaders that the liberal party is finally in the way of making a vigorous comeback and regaining its old prestige. Necessarily the party could do little more than play a waiting game and trust to time and luck.

Its legislative spokesmen, having scrapped out their own differences, have been merely standing by and letting the Baldwin government go its own gait.

Two things have lately reacted with considerable force against the conservatives. One was the antagonism developed by its bill aimed at the trade unions, making it unlawful to call, aid or participate in a general strike, and subjecting any organization attempting it to the seizure of its funds for the payment of damages to business concerns or property owners who might be injured thereby. The other was the raid on the Russian soviet house in London, which failed of its prime object—the recovery of an important official document stolen from the government's archives—and gave the laborites some new ammunition in their fight against the Baldwin regime.

However, the British people have not forgotten the losses and inconvenience they suffered during the transport workers' strike, the coal strike, and other interruptions to industry and trade which the labor bodies forced upon them during the past few years. They are growing dissatisfied, apparently, with the present government but are afraid to entrust the labor party with power. The only other thing they can do is to turn again to the liberals; and that seems to be the trend of the day in Great Britain.

TESTS FOR DRUNKS.

Back in the days before the country went dry there was a standing joke about the man who imbibed a little too freely and went home, stopping on the way to buy a few cloves to "kill his breath." The scene was supposed to be something like this:

Wifey: Drunk again, huh?

Hubby: My dear, you wrong me; I haven't had a drop.

Wifey: Well what makes your eyes water, then, and why do you talk so funny? Here, lemme smell your breath! Cloves! I knew it!

Hubby: Can't a man eat a clove without being drunk, huh, I ask you? I like cloves.

(And so on.)

But those days are over. Prohibition, of course, has ended such scenes as the above. But in case the Volstead act should ever be repealed, and liquor again be obtainable, cloves will do no good. Even if a man can "carry" his liquor he won't be safe.

Modern science has come to the aid of the suspicious wife. No longer will she suspect, but find proof impossible because of the fragrant clove. Blood tests recently conducted in the University of Cincinnati hospital show degrees of intoxication without fail. If liquor ever comes back we may expect this scene:

Wifey: Drinking again, huh?

Hubby: My dear, of course not. How could you be so unjust?

Wifey: Don't try to kid me. Come here. (Opens door to laboratory)

Hubby: Whats....what's this?

Wifey: You'll see. (Takes drop of blood from ear and puts it in test tube.) So you weren't drinking? Then what makes that potassium dichromate turn blue? And you promised me! This shows three milligrams to the cubic centimeter. You're disgustingly drunk. Oh! you wretch!....(And so on.)

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Tobacco Harmful?

B.—Yes, it is estimated that those who inhale their tobacco smoke absorb eight times as much nicotine as the non-inhaler.

Is nicotine harmful? Undoubtedly. It attacks the sympathetic nervous system first and later the general nervous system and the circulatory system.

According to many authorities, excessive smoking causes a mental impairment, a lack of concentration and loss of memory.

Those who have heart troubles increase them by smoking, and if no heart troubles are present, smoking in excess will produce a type of the disease known as smokers' heart: disagreeable palpitations after slight excitement, ill-defined weak feelings around the heart, and pains. This may go on to more severe heart trouble.

Cancers of the lip and tongue are not supposed to be caused by the nicotine, but by the mechanical irritation of the thing smoked (or chewed), and the heat.

Bloodgood maintains that cancer of the lip and mouth is never caused except by ragged, dirty teeth and tobacco, either combined or separate. (Ill fitting plates or bridges would be included.) Leucoplakia (white patches) in the mouth he claims is caused by tobacco only, and there is only one treatment for this—the discontinuance of the tobacco and the scrupulous care of the teeth. And, of course, the prevention of cancer of the lip and mouth would be the same.

The real cure for tobacco smoking is to stop it. Apparently it is harder for some to temporize and smoke moderately, than it is to stop entirely. The application of one-half of one per cent of silver nitrate—so one doctor tells me, and several of our correspondents who have stopped smoking by this method have verified this—makes the mouth taste so terrible that the desire to smoke is lost.

Margarines.

Mrs. W.—Yes, margarines are just as fattening as butter, for they register the same in calories—100 C. to the one-half ounce. (One-half ounce is a level tablespoonful.)

To date, I have seen no reports from the national or college laboratories that state that margarines have the vitamin A in them—that vitamin which is necessary for the growth and the integrity of the mucous membranes; so they should not be used in place of butter for children or adults, unless cream or cod liver oil is taken.

If margarines are used wholly, it would be wise for every member of the family to have a teaspoonful of cod liver oil daily. This is 300—400 times more potent in the vitamin A than even butter.

Will Grapefruit Reduce?

"I was told that drinking two cups of water in which a grapefruit had been cut up, rind and all, the night before (the water being boiling when poured in) would control one's weight. What do you think of it? —Miss D."

The drinking of two glasses of water in the morning is a beneficial habit, and water with grapefruit juice in it would contain some vitamins which are beneficial, but it would not control your weight. There is nothing that will control the weight except a control of the entire diet. And it would be better to take your grapefruit fresh, without pouring boiling water over it; then you would get all of the vitamins. One-half of a large grapefruit is 100C.

If you want to know how to reduce (or to gain) send for our booklet on the subject. Enclose ten cents in stamps with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

My dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

NOMINATE SEVEN FOR "Y" BOARD

Committee's Nominees and Others to Be Voted on June 25.

Nominations for the Y. M. C. A. board of directors have been made by the nominating committee composed of Charles Strader, E. L. mith and W. A. Selleck. The nominees follow:

W. S. Adams
J. H. Humpe
H. W. Noble
E. F. Snavely
A. W. Thompson
Robert Van Pelt
E. J. Walt

All have served on the board of directors the past three years with the exception of A. W. Thompson If no other nominations are filed by members all of the above nominees will be elected. Members have the right to ask that any name be put on the ballot if the person desired complies with the proper qualifications. The nominating committee sits in open session for ten days to receive any such nominations. The last day for such filings will be June 19.

Election day will be June 25.

The present board of directors has twenty-one members, each elected for a term of three years, seven elected annually N. G. Gardner has served one year of his term but has resigned because of illness in his family. The board after duly commending Mr. Gardner on his work for the association accepted the resignation. T. A. Blakeslee has been nominated to fill out Mr. Gardner's unexpired term. He will be voted on at the election June 25.

In addition to voting on members for the board of directors a new constitution has been proposed for ratification. It is patterned after the recommended charter of the national Y. M. C. A. council. It includes several new features.

At the present time the entire membership of the board of directors must be from what the Y. M. C. A. terms as "Evangelical churches." The new constitution will provide that only ninety per cent need be from such churches and that the remaining ten per cent may come from any church or may not be church members. It further places all branch organizations under the central board of directors.

Vote by mail is another new point. Heretofore members have been forced to come to the central office to cast their ballots. This will be permitted by the new constitution but if it is more convenient for the member, he may vote by mail.

Another amendment to the constitution has been proposed although it has nothing to do with the nationally suggested governing rules. It is to increase the board of directors from twenty-one members to twenty-four members. This is to include representatives from the key churches of University Place and Bethany which while suburbs could not be members of the general board.

If this amendment carries and W. A. Luke, general secretary, believes it will a special election will be held at which time three men will be nominees, one for a one-year term, one for a two-year term, and one for a three-year term.

GUIDE ROCK MAN CALLED BY DEATH

(Special to The Star.)

GUIDE ROCK, Neb., June 11—Hugh B. Hunter, president of the Guide Rock State bank here for many years, a prominent citizen of Guide Rock since the early days, and rated as one of the wealthiest citizens of Webster county, died at his home here Friday afternoon at the age of 76. He settled on land near Guide Rock 45 years ago, and retired to town in a short time, where he had always been a leader in business, civic, social and political affairs.

He owned several good farms in this vicinity, and accumulated considerable other property. Up to a few years ago he was always able to his share of work and superintend his farms, but three years ago he suffered an injury when he fell from a wagon while at one of his farms, was run over, and, it is felt, that he never fully recovered from this injury.

He is survived by the wife, four sons, L. H. Hunter, cashier of the bank of which the father was president; Floyd, Guide Rock butcher; Gray and George, farmers, near Guide Rock, and two daughters, Mrs. M. F. Rickard, wife of a Guide Rock merchant, and Mrs. J. Wilson, of Long Beach, Calif.

Those Lucky Pullens

by Malcolm Duart

(Copyright, 1926, by Eugene MacLean.)

The Story So Far.

Two young men, Sam Carlile, a neighbor boy, and an attorney named Parks have been coming to see Julia Pullen, pretty and nineteen. Mrs. Pullen, innocently romantic, manages to get Julia into a quarrel with Sam. The Pullens have received a houseful of costly furniture and other expensive gifts from an unknown friend, following Mrs. Pullen's accidental purchase of a Chinese lacquered chest, which Pullen afterwards sells to two Chinamen. Word comes of a $680,000 reward offered in China for the return of seven huge diamonds, concealed in such a chest, and believed to have been shipped to America. As the last chapter ends, young Parks (whom Julia dislikes) comes to call, saying that part of his mission is to talk with Pullen.

Chapter XLVI.

"I think it's so nice, Mr. Parks, for a young man to be respectful to ladies," said Mrs. Pullen, sinking into the chair the young man offered. "Julia, you sit down, too. Why do you look so cross, child?"

The girl said nothing, but came and took her seat on one of the discarded dining-room chairs, beside her mother.

"What did you want to see me about?" Pullen asked, leaning against the stair rail.

Parks sat on the couch, and lifted his nose-glasses. "The thought is this," he said. "I am an attorney-at-law, as you know. I have no private practice since I am employed in the same office—" he bowed to Julia—"as your charming daughter. I desire to open an office of my own—to become, in short, independent."

"Well?" said Pullen, rather impatiently.

The young man put on his glasses and continued. "You have a business, Mr. Pullen—a growing business. You will need the services of a counselor. I would think it a privilege to have you as a client. I would defend you in lawsuits, take action against persons who have defrauded you, collect moneys due you, be your legal agent, guide and confidant." He took off the glasses and waved them to and fro.

"I've got a lawyer," said Pullen. "Fellow who goes out and collects rent money. He doesn't make much."

"But," said Parks—"pardon me if I mention it—I can't choose but know you are becoming a man of consequence. In fact, report has it that you are becoming one of the city's prosperous men. Your household—" he jerked his thumb back toward the crowded living-room—"is full of costly objects. Your car is a marvel of beauty.

"In brief, Mr. Pullen, it would be an honor to me to ally myself with a coming wealthy citizen!"

"I don't give a cuss who you ally yourself with," returned his host, rudely. Pullen's dislike of the young man on the couch had plainly been rising, and now overflowed with vigor. "I don't think you've got sense enough to be anybody's lawyer. Stay here and talk to Julia if you want to. I'm going upstairs."

"Why, Fred!" cried Mrs. Pullen.

Her husband, however, stolidly tramped up the steps, and in a moment the door of his bedroom slammed behind him.

"We certainly apologize," said Pullen's wife, aghast. "Julia and I apologize for what he said, Mr. Parks!"

The attorney, disconcerted, was trying to attach his glasses to the top button of his waistcoat, against the handicap of a shaking hand. "Why," said he. "Good gracious!" Succeeding at last in anchoring the glasses, he passed nervous fingers over his hair. "Thank you for your good words, Mrs. Pullen. I won't deny that I am—in snort, I am hurt! My feelings are wounded."

She got up, crossed the narrow space between them, and sat beside him on the couch. "Julia and I wouldn't have had this happen for worlds," she said. "Julia is so fond of you."

"Ah," he said. His eyes rolled toward the girl.

"Yes," Mrs. Pullen went on, "she's spoken of you so often. I think Mr. Pullen is out of sorts. I know he is. It was—it was something that upset him."

Parks had regained his composure, and he looked at his hostess with polite inquiry.

"It was about a fortune—a large fortune," she explained.

"Mama!" said Julia, warningly.

"Well, it was about a fortune," insisted her mother. "You know it was."

"A fortune?" inquired Parks.

"A very large one," said Mrs. Pullen. "But I mustn't say anything more about it."

"I gather—ha, ha!—that perhaps he did not receive the—er—what was?" Parks was beaming with interest.

He waited for her to continue, but she was staring at her daughter, who shook her head and frowned.

"Don't make faces at me, Julia!" said Mrs. Pullen "I know when I've said enough. But you might have helped us, Mr. Parks. We did so need a wise, experienced lawyer to tell us what to do!"

He laid a hand gently on her wrist. "Mrs. Pullen," he said, "it was the sort of thing I had hoped for." Looking across the hall at Julia, he extended an arm to her dramatically. "Miss Pullen, I forgive your father—a wealthy man with heavy affairs upon his mind."

Rising, he took a step or two backward. "I swear it, madam—and Miss Pullen, I shall win Mr. Pullen's friendship again!"

"I like to hear a young man go on that way," said Mrs. Pullen, admiringly. "It shows so much spirit."

Parks continued, after a moment's thought, and with less melodrama in his voice and movements. "I do wish there were some way in which I could serve your husband, I'd like to show him what I can do. He is deceived in me—indeed, he is."

He was standing beside the hat tree, and now he took his overcoat and scarf. "I'd better go now, but you'll help me make my peace with Mr. Pullen, won't you?"

"Indeed we will," said Mrs Pullen. "It was terrible the way he carried on. Julia has simply been shocked."

If the girl really suffered from shock at her father's conduct, she showed no trace of it when she turned from the door, after bidding Parks goodnight. Instead she laughed and took her mother by the arm.

"Do you know what I think?" she asked. "I think that old soft Parks really has the idea that papa's rich."

"Isn't that nice?" said her mother, with simple pleasure. "I do hope he reports it around town."

"He's going to keep on trying to be papa's lawyer," Julia went on, "and I think he'll keep on trying to make love to me."

Her mother nodded. "He's madly in love with you," she said. "Anybody can see that. But, Julia—why are you so cold to him? Mama knows about these things, child—that isn't the way to interest a young man."

"Possibly not," said the girl, still smiling. "Maybe papa has the right method—Mr. Parks seemed to be interested in what he said."

"I'm going upstairs and talk to your father about that," promised the mother.

She carried this plan into effect at once, and two hours later, Julia in her bedroom still could hear Mrs. Pullen's voice in action, the father's tones joining now and again in a sleepy growl.

In the course of the next few days it developed that the loss of the big new house had disappointed Mrs. Pullen more than she was willing to admit.

Three times she took her husband and daughter, after dark, to look at the lots that lay beside Mrs. Hamilton's home. They stood pointing out to one another where the entrance would be, and the drive, and the large garage.

"But it won't be any use building just a little house," said Mrs. Pullen, mournfully. "We've got one of those now."

This was on the third evening. They were plodding homeward, lowering their heads against a chill December wind.

"We used to have such nice card parties and all," she continued, "and I'd thought of so many nice things to do in a big house. But nobody comes to see us any more and I can't call on any of the women—maybe it's just as well. I wouldn't know what to do with a big house, without any friends."

They turned into their own home, and mounted the steps.

"Wouldn't it be nice if we had those diamonds!" she sighed.

Pullen was fumbling for the keyhole. Footsteps sounded on the walk, and Julia, peering under her arched hand, stared at a dark figure that had detached itself from the shadow of a tree and now moved toward them.

"Why, Sam!" she cried delightedly.

The young man came up to the porch, just as Pullen opened the door and turned on the hall light.

He eyed the girl, and nodded, but addressed Pullen.

"Another one of those packages came for you tonight," he said. "It was at my room down town when I got there after work."

At Mrs. Pullen's urging he came inside. Beneath the single lamp they examined the small parcel—registered, insured, and bearing a penciled memorandum from Sam's landlady: "I signed a receipt for this." The address was to Pullen, in Sam's care.

Pullen broke the seals, removed the wrappings, opened the small box inside, and dumped the contents in his palm.

For an instant they all stared, speechless.

In his hand lay a great, irregular oblong diamond that glowed in reds and greens and blues beneath the light.

H. H. MEYER LISTS DEBTS OF $315,000

Bankruptcy Petition Filed in Federal Court By College View Man.

Debts amounting to $315,376 were listed by Herman H. Meyer in a bankruptcy petition which he filed in Federal court Saturday morning. Meyer is a salesman and lives at 621 L street, College View. All of the claims against him are unsecured. Meyer's total assets amount to $400 and exemption is claimed on this amount.

Three of the largest creditors are the Hamilton National bank of Denver, $125,000; American State bank of Omaha, $100,000 and the City National bank of Crete, $18,000. These amounts were secured on blanket guarantees to cover notes which were re-discounted and given when Meyer was cashier of the Gurley State bank of Gurley, Neb., according to the petition.

Among the other creditors are William C. Merrill, jr., Denver, $18,000 for stock in a patent; T. O. Ramsland, Cheyenne Wells, Colo., $7,000 for stock purchased and notes; Elmer Berling, Ouray, Colo., $12,000 for purchase of a mortgage; R. B. Christy, Scott City, Kas., $9,000 for stock; G. S. Hammitt, Canon City, Colo., $4,000 for land; Frank L. Doty, Colorado Springs, Colo., $1,800 for money advanced; Louis Willie, Colorado Springs, $3,600 to have been used for the purchase of land; C. D. Cotner, Denver, $5,500 for deed to equity in land; George R. Bassett, Wichita, $5,500 for purchase of oil leases; and Guarantee Trust company, Denver, $2,900 for notes.

A largs number of Lincoln firms are listed among the creditors for amounts ranging from a few dollars to a hundred.

The assets include household goods valued at $100; a Ford sedan, $250; and personal property, $50.

BRIEFLY TOLD NEWS FROM PRESS WIRES

CHICAGO.—(AP) — The Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad last night announced that one of its new all steel parlor cars will henceforth be named the Lindbergh in honor of Col. Charles Lindbergh, and sent him a message telling him of the fact. The car will operate between Chicag and Minneapolis and St. Paul.

ST. JOHN'S N. F.—(AP)—Undismayed by his first day's failure, Maj. F. Sidney Cotton was eager today to renew his search for Captains Nungesser and Francois Coli, missing French trans-Atlantic fliers, who are believed to have met disaster somewhere near this island. Major Cotton flew his big monoplane, the Jeanne D'Arc, over the jagged coast line and rugged interior of the huge wedge of land, including this city, Harbor Grace, twenty-five miles northeast and the southwestern shore tip of Placentia bay, 120 miles to the south.

Council Arranges to Open Grave to Grade New Street

Members of the city council motored to Wymore Friday afternoon to confer with Mrs. F. L. Hohensee, niece of Willie Dye, buried nearly fifty years ago just inside the city limits on Burnham street west of Fourteenth. The lad was drowned in 1878 west of the state's prison and buried on the property of his parents. At that time there was no cemetery.

The city has expanded to the south until the limits included the site of the grave, which was found in October, 1925, when street department employes started grading Burnham street. Commissioner Duncan ordered the work stopped.

The conference Friday was in an effort to have the body removed. Petitions asking that the district be graded make the work mandatory, but nothing can be done until the body is removed. The council will bear the expense.

Brothers and sisters of the dead boy live in Oregon and they will be notified through Mrs. Hohensee.

High Court Will Hear Kirk Habeas Corpus in Fall

The appeal of Byrl Kirk from the decision of the Lancaster county District court denying his application for a writ of habeas corpus will be heard by the Supreme court at the first sitting next fall, on or shortly after September 19.

Kirk is serving a term in the penitentiary, having been convicted of being an accessory to a murder. He was released several years ago on the order of Acting Governor Bushee but later returned on the order of Governor McKelvie.

Kirk claims that the release was legal and that he is now being held illegally.

Hay Springs Lake Jammed With Fish, Game Warden Says

Hundreds of inquiries have been coming in to State Game Warden O'Connell from Nebraska nimrods who want to be directed to a good fishing place, and he has been recommending Lake Wallgreen near Hay Springs.

The reason is that reports have come from Hay Springs that the lake is so full of sunfish that all that is needed to make a good catch is a knot on the end of a line. J. A. Goff, a Hay Springs banker who wrote to O'Connell, says the fish are striking at any thing that hits the water.

The lake is also stocked with perch and bullheads, the latter up to three pounds. The department is anxious to have sunfish taken out of the lake so it may be stocked with bass.

Sunfish provide good sport, O'Connell says, and grow to a fairly good size. There is no state limit on the number a person may catch in a day.

URGES BOYCOTT OF CHAMBERLIN

PARIS, June 11—(AP)—A boycott of Chamberlin and Levine when they come to Paris was urged by the Berlin correspondent of the Paris Midi, today, because, he said, the trans-Atlantic aviators and officials of the American embassy in Berlin had ignored the French at all the functions held thus far in their honor.

Roads to Permit Picking Up Load at Several Stops

The Missouri Pacific has applied to the railway commission for permission to change its rules regarding the shipping of cheese, eggs, dead rabbits and dressed poultry to permit the shipper to stop cars enroute to the destination for the purpose of completing a carload.

If the application is granted, a shipper may start a car at one point in the western part of the state and stop it at stations enroute to the eastern market to fill the car. This rule would apply only within the state, since there will be a similar interstate commerce rule in effect July 1. Only three stops are allowed, and the shipper must pay a switching charge of $6.30 a car per stop for the privilege.

The plan will afford considerable convenience to shippers who are unable to make up a complete load at one town.

DISCOVER NEW COMET.

CHICAGO June 11—(AP)—The discovery of a new comet, in the constellation of Capricorn, was announced from Australia Friday in a message received by Prof. Philip Cox at the Nortnwestern university observatory. The Pons-Winnecke comet now is speeding toward the earth, and on June 26 will be visible to the naked eye less than 4,000,000 miles away.

PIONEER LAWYER DIES AT HANOVER

(Special to The Star.)

HANOVER, Kas., June 11—Hiram R. Fulton, 70 years old, lawyer, prominent citizen of Washington county, Kas., for the past forty years, died at his home here Friday, and funeral services were held here today. He was a former city attorney for many terms, acted as attorney for the St. J. & G. I. railway in this district for many years, and also served as postmaster of Hanover for nine years. He came to Kansas in 1870, settling in Nemaha county, and came to Hanover in 1879. For 18 years he was editor of the Hanover Enterprise here. In 1898 he was a candidate for county attorney of Washington county, and in 1902 and 1908 was a candidate for the state senate, but was defeated each time. He was a delegate from here to the democratic national convention at Denver in 1908. He is survived by a brother, W. L. Fulton, of Sabetha, Kas., two daughters, Mrs. Oscar L. Jaedake, of Roswell, N. M., and Mrs. H. Lindemann of Hastings and his widow.

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE.

WASHINGTON, June 11— (AP) — Selection of a city for the republican national convention next year will be left by President Coolidge to the republican national committee. The president has no choice, it was said yesterday at the white house, and he suggested to those who have presented the bids of at least half a dozen cities that their petitions be filed with the national committee. A sub-committee will meet in December to make a selection.

DE AUTREMONT AT COLUMBUS.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 11—(AP)—Ray and Roy De Autremont charged with the murder of a postal clerk and three trainmen in a mail robbery in Oregon, were lodged in the Franklin county jail here last night to await extradition to Jacksonville, Oregon. They were brought from Steubenville, where they were captured after a four year hunt.

FAIRBANKS Alaska—(AP)—George H. Wilkins, Australian explorer, and the entire personnel of the Detroit News Arctic expedition left here Friday for the states.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Government operation of the Chicago-San Francisco leg of the trans-continental air mail will cease at midnight on June 30, Edward Hubbard, vice president in charge of operations of the Boeing Air Transport, Inc., of Seattle, Wash., said today. His company some time ago was awarded the contract for the route. Specially built planes for this service, including a two passenger cabin on each machine, will be used. The transfer of the mail from government planes to private planes will take place at Omaha the night of June 30.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A $10,000 pearl and diamond necklace belonging to the Comtesse Grace, wife of Comte Albert De Mun of Belgium, was recovered by police Friday with the arrest of Paul Peemueller, a jeweler. The gems had been reported lost in a taxicab last April. Clarence Krumhein, cab driver, was arrested for selling the jewels after he said he found them in his cab. The Comte De Mun is head of the World Union for Prohibition.

MARSHALL, Ark.—(AP)—Four armed men Friday held up and robbed the American Exchange bank of Leslie, Ark., near here, were believed surrounded in a wooded area about two miles from Leslie last night. The men obtained between $4,000 and $8,000.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—Fire Chief Edward Morgan, 55, was probably fatally injured and his driver, Robert Epecki, 39, suffered severe injuries last night when the chief's car, standing at the curb near a fire in the residence section, was struck by a swinging fire truck and dashed against another car.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—With cash subscriptions aggregating $617,604,750 for the $200,000,000 issue of 3½ per cent treasury bonds maturing in 1947, Secretary Mellon announced Friday that those not exceeding $100,000 had been allotted 50 per cent those in amounts over $100,000, but not exceeding $1,000,000, allotted forty per cent, and those over $1,000,000 allotted 30 per cent. Secretary Mellon also announced that holders of the Second Liberty loan bonds might exchange their securities for the new treasury bonds until June 15, and possibly later.

BOSTON—(AP)—The Boston stock exchange announced Friday that it would follow the action of the New York exchange in remaining closed on Monday, June 13.—when Colonel Lindbergh is to be welcomed to New York.

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 11

Despite black rust reports from Indiana and notwithstanding that the Canadian government crop report was bullish, wheat suffered a sharp downturn late today. The reaction was due to increased selling from houses with northwestern and southern connection. The selling disclosed an absence of support, and wheat and corn both dropped to below yesterday's bottom figures, with many standing orders to stop losses forced automatically into operation.

Wheat closed heavy, 2⅞c to 2⅞c net lower, corn ⅝c to 1¼c off, oats ⅞c to 1½c down, and provisions unchanged.

Word came today from a leading crop expert who is on an inspection tour of Indiana that from Worthington to Sullivan in that state wheat is below average, that many fields show thinning out of spring stools for which farmers are blaming red rust, with some fields very bad. The farmers also fear black rust, and he found some spores on the lower part of sthalks but not promising damage.

Authorities here interpreted the Canadian government crop report as indicating a wheat production of 320 000 000 bushels this season, as against 383,000,000 bushels harvested in 1926. This is on the basis of a present official condition estimate of 95 per cent and on an unofficial estimate of 19,372,000 acres under seed.

Corn was firmer with wheat and on officil reports incating that planting was unusually late, only half the acreage being planted over an area that producer around 20 per cent of the total crop of the country. Subsequently the corn market broke rapidly as a result of general selling and lack of buyers. Weather conditions were generally falvorable.

Oats were influenced by the action of other grains.

Provisions went down on account of weakness both of hogs and cereals.

Weekly Trade Review.

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Bradstreet's today said:

With a turn for the better in several areas, the crop and retail trade situation has measurably improved, but both crops and trade show great irregularities, with some crops, as for instance corn, later in some states than for nearly a quarter of a century past, and the winter wheat prospect is for a crop 80,000,000 bushels, or 14 per cent below a year ago.

Eastern and far western markets send relatively best reports as to trade, and in crops, the smaller grains, especially wheat and hay, present the best reports. Industry has tended to quiet, notable in this respect being iron and steel after a close-to-record rive months; the automobile industry, which reflects shutdowns for changes in models, and the furniture manufacturing trade. In textiles, cotton goods manufacturing send by far the best reports, although rayon is active, and the takings of silk are of record size for the elapsed portion of the year, although reports are conflicting in diff rent centers, partly because of the lower prices for the raw material and finished goods.

Weekly bank clearings: $10,665,380,000.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 11

In the half session of the stock market preceding the double holiday today, the bulk of industrial stocks displayed a heavy and reactionary tone. Speculative interest was confined mostly to the professionals.

Special weakness was in evidence in the co-called oil-lands stocks. Texas Land Trust dropped back to below 29, two points below Friday's clock, Transcontinental Oil was also on the selling counter.

Selling pressure on the speculative leaders, including General Motors, Reading, Baldwin and other well known shares, was sufficient to depress prices a point or two. The "merger rails," Western Maryland, Wabash and Missouri Pacific, also sold off 2 to 3 points in a quiet market, in which absence of buwing power was amore important factor than urgent liquidation. There were a few exceptions to the rule. American Can's new advance to 54 being the most important.

Speculative "evening up" was in evidence in the commodity market, though the Monday shut-down will not be on as large as in the security markets. The New York cotton and rubber exchanges will close at noon, and the produce exchange will be open all day. Corn sold fractionally higher, after Friday's heavy decline, and cotton gained a few points.

Sharp declines in the pool stocks and the close of the market. A 5-point drop in Pierce Arrow preferred to 61 followed rumore of the possible discontinuance of the 8 per cent dividend. A. M. Byers declined to 80, completing a loss of about 14 points from the high of the week.

Though the better grade of industrial and mercantile stocks displayed a firm tone in this period, there were no corresponding advances in the speculative favorites, and the market lost ground. Hudson Motors was a feature of the final period, with a sharp recovery to above 85.

Railroad stocks were inactive and industrial stocks irregular at the opening today. Price changes were mostly fractional. American Can continued to move forward, with a gain of ½ at 53¼. United States Steel was down ¾ at 122¼; General Motors up ¼ at 203⅝; Mack Trucks up ¼ at 113; Studebaker unchanged at 50½; Radio up ⅝ at 50¼; Atlantic Refining up ½ at 123½; Rock Island railroad up ⅞ at 199¾.

GRAIN NOTES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 11.

Heavy profit taking in wheat yesterday resulted in a declining market which at the close stood at approximately 4 cents lower than the high mark.

The wheat bulge was caused, it was said, by a bullish construction placed upon the Thursday government report. Some traders, however, believe that conditions in the southwest have considerably improved since the report was issued.

Corn sales were larger on a declining market. Most of the selling came from shorts and bid holders. Sellers of bids were forced to cover up on the slide downward.

In early trading rye tipped a new high, but was influenced by other grains later and slipped to 4½ cents from the peak on realized sales.

Oats, in a featureless market, fell with wheat in the late trading.

UPSET FEATURES IRISH ELECTIONS

Present Government Loses Majority; De Valera Elected.

LONDON, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—The Dublin correspondent of the British Press association says the Irish elections have taken a surprising turn. The latest returns, he adds, indicate that the government party cannot obtain a clear cut majority in the new daileireann and a coalition government appears inevitable.

The correspondent says that Eamon De Valera, leader of the republican group which directed a strong fight against the present government, was definitely elected for County Clare.

He claims to have been connected with it longer than any other Nebraska editor has been engaged in getting out one publication.

Wall Street Briefs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.

Higher call money rates are regarded as likely next week because of the heavy shifting of funds incidental to federal income tax payments, government financing and the usual mid-month interest and dividend payments. While the gold and reserve position would seem to warrant a reduction in the New York Federal Reserve bank, such action is regarded by conservative bankers as unlikely at the present time because of the resultant danger of inflation, particularly in securities prices.

First quarter earnings of International Telephone & Telegraph corporation and associated companies totalled $2,742,597, more than double the figure for the same period of 1926 when the figure was $1,321,-245. The earnings for the quarter were equivalent to $2.95 a share on the common stock.

McCrory Stores corporation reported earnings in the quarter ended March 31 of 58 cents a share on the Class B and common stocks, against 51 cents a share in the first quarter last year.

Gross revenue of the Canadian Pacific railway from January 1 to June 7 totalled $74,770,000, as compared with $70,940,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

Net profit of A. C. Spalding & Co. for the quarter ended April 30 amounted to $427,161, equivalent to $5.64 a share on the common stock, against net loss of $320,-860 in the preceding quarter.

Directors of Financial & Industrial Securities corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, raising the annual rate from $2 to $3. An extra dividend of 35 cents a share on the common also was authorized.

* An extra dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock was declared by Marlin Rockwell, in addition to the regular quarterly of 50 cents a share, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 20.

POLICE CALLED TO QUELL N. Y. RADICAL CROWD

Demonstration Staged at British Consulate by Mixed Gathering.

CHINA AS THE BIG GRIEVANCE

'China for Chinese' Shout Radicals, Exhorted by Julia Poyntz.

NEW YORK, June 11—(By the Associated Press.)—The police were called out this afternoon to quell a demonstration by radicals in front of the British consulate in Whitehall street.

The crowd, which included numerous Chinese and negroes, paraded around the block bounded by Whitehall, State and Pearl streets, on which the consulate is situated.

The procession was orderly, apart from a few hisses and cat calls from homebound office workers, until Julia S. Poyntz, writer and lecturer on labor problems, began to harangue her supporters.

While motored police cleared a lane she was brought by a patrolman to the nearby quarters of the marine police. She explained the purpose of her presence, was released, and again began to address her fellowers from the steps of a building in which is located the Cuban consulate. She continued her address under the protection of an American flag that was beside her.

The demonstrations was staged under the auspices of the "Hands Off China Committee," leaders of the movement told the police.

Some of the banners carried (read): "Down with British Imperialism," "British Control in China Obtained by Opium War," "Chinese Students in Columbia University Protest Against War in China," "Stop Attackers on Soviet Union," "Stop Killing Chinese Students," "China for Chinese."

The Workers League of America, the Workers Communist Party of America, and the Joint board of fur and garment workers also participated in the demonstration.

Later, the crowd moved along Whitehall and Pearl streets, when citizens began to tear down the banners the marchers carried.

Showers Forecast For Coming Week

PROUD NATION OPENS ARMS TO COL. LINDBERGH

monument grounds with a welcoming speech and the highest decorative honors within his gift.

The lanky youth was almost overcome by the splendor of his homecoming — and well he might be, for not in the history of the republic have such honors been conferred upon one of its sons. A private battleship brought him home from his victorious and peaceful invasion of Europe, a cordon of destroyers met him off the Virginia capes, and a hundred airplanes roared a welcome through their exhausts which was in his own language. And down historic Pennsylvania avenue, which has echoed to the tramp of Grant's men, the clatter of numerous inaugurals, and the majestic passing of the unknown soldier — down this most famous of all American thoroughfares were countless thousands from curb to building line, applauding his feat and his safe return.

Wonders Whether Deserving.

"I wonder if I really deserve all this?" he asked rather wonderingly on the bridge of the Memphis, when the destroyers first came out, and the same question appeared to occupy him as the passage up the muddy Potomac unfolded ever-increasing honors — salutes reserved for presidents and potentates, daredevil maneuvers by his brother flyers, and cheers, cheers, cheers.

Bareheaded, his hair a tousle over his forehead, but smiling almost increduously at the welcome, the slim youth stood on the bridge during the slow process of warping the vessel into her dock. He appeared embarrassed as the salvos of cheers and applause reached him from the 2,000 persons closely packed on the dock. His right hand, then his left, rose and fell automatically as he surveyed the scene. Vice Admiral Burrage stood on the bridge with him.

Beneath him on the deck were two crates bearing his precious ship "the Spirit of St. Louis." A giant hoisting crane stood nearby ready to take the crates off the ship and rush them to Bolling Field for immediate assembly. He is going to fly that ship to another tremendous greeting in New York on Monday.

Even the clang of the gangplank going down did not move him to leave the bridge. He stood there apparently nonplussed as the crowd surged forward around the gangplank. He looked for all the world like a college youth, his hair blowing in the breeze, his demeanor one of apparent shyness. If he was embarrassed at the acclaim of Paris and London, he appeared doubly so when the acclaiming was being done by "home folks."

Gather at Monument Grounds.

Meanwhile at the Washington monument grounds, the crowd gathering to see him decorated by President Coolidge was steadily growing in proportions, and Pennsylvania avenue was packed.

When the crowd started surging toward the gangplank, Lindbergh hurriedly left the bridge, shaking hands with the ship's officers as he went below. Reaching the dock, he came to the rail and waved to the crowd.

By this time the marines had succeeded in impressing upon the more impetuous that nobody was going aboard ahead of Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, and the crowd stopped short. The marines cleared a pathway to the foot of the gangplank, and a white house automobile then swept up to it. In it were his mother accompanied by John Hays Hammond, the Washington philanthrophist who is chairman of the capital's reception committee.

A naval officer offered her his arm as she stepped from the machine.

At the top of the plank, the officer gallantly stepped aside to allow Mrs. Lindenburgh to be the first to step aboard. As she did so, her son hurriedly left the rail and, crossing the deck, disappeared into a cabin. Captain Lackey, commanding the Memphis, then escorted her to the cabin, and left her.

Mother and son met with no curious eyes to observe them.

The meeting between mother and son was quickly over. Their faces wreathed in smiles, they emerged from the cabin to meet on the deck the secretaries of war and navy, the postmaster general and other officials.

Then the youth appeared to want to get ashore and he did so speedily. His foot struck American soil again at 11:55 a. m., within three minutes after his mother had crossed the gangplank.

Thunderous Cheer Rises

A thunderous cheer went up as the youth strode down the gangplank. Boats in the harbor, seeming to sense he was ashore, set off their sirens, automobiles in the streets outside the yard honked their horns, and the place was a bedlam. A surging crowd almost—but not quite — swept away the guarding marines.

He shook hands with a score of people before the officers succeeded in clearing a path for him to the white house machine. His mother was close on his heels and they entered the car within a few minutes after landing. The guns of the Memphis boomed out in compliment to the secretary of the navy, which is an orthodox procedure, but everybody thought it was for Lindbergh.

His nervouseness appeared to increase as the bedlam continued and as the crowd pressed more and more tightly about the machine, he rose from his seat in the open machine, waved his hand, flushed and then sat down again precipitately, as if fearful that he might say something.

John Hays Hammond got into the car at this moment and the chauffeur moved off as quickly as he could without killing a lot of government officials.

The length of time it took to warp the Memphis into the dock — she only had a foot's clearance in the narrow Washington channel—somewhat disrupted the reception plans. Mrs. Lindbergh did not wait to have luncheon aboard, as planned. Her son said he had eaten sandwiches at 10:30, so the luncheon went by the boards.

It was noted that Lindbergh did not appear in his new colonel's uniform, which was delivered to him by a destroyer off the Virginia capes yesterday. It was a spick and span new outfit, all burnished up with the silver eagles that denote the colonelcy, but apparently the youth would have none of it. At least, he strode down the gangplank in a double-breasted civilian suit of blue.

No Reason Advanced.

The reason was not advanced, but it was recalled that the army had come in for some criticism by allegedly trying to "crowd" the flier into a uniform for his homecoming.

On the left lapel of his coat glamed the brilliant bit of red that denotes the French Legion of Honor. Above that was a small button with wings—the emblem of the "quiet bird" organization of pilots. He had worn this on his lonely flight across the Atlantic, and it was noted that it still stood above the French decoration.

At a snail's pace, necessitated partly because of the physical impossibility of moving fast, and partly to give the patient thousands an opportunity for a good view of the boy, the white house automobile moved out of the great stone archway of the navy yard and into the southeastern stretch of Pennsylvania avenue. This part of the avenue is below the capitol where the parade was scheduled to begin.

The parading troops were deployed through the numerous avenues and streets that run away from the circular plaza where the peace monument stands, but some units fell in as the automobile proceeded towards the capital.

Outside the navy yard gates, Lindbergh got a foretaste of what was in store for him in that mile stretch between the capitol and the treasury. The sidewalks were jammed with people who had been there since early morning, and the embarrassed youth rode by with the din of cheering hitting him from both sides.

The passage to the capitol was quickly accomplished. Both Mrs. Lindbergh and her son glanced curiously at the huge dome, gleaming in the sun. It was not unfamiliar to them, although it is doubtful if either ever expected to see it exactly under such circumstances. They left that same capitol ten years ago, when the young hero's father retired from congress.

Across the capitol plaza there was a short halt until a troop of the Third cavalry, "the President's Own," swung smartly into place, and the parade was on.

A Brilliant Sun.

The avenue, brilliant in the noonday sun, and aflame with color as far as the eye could see, must have presented an inspiring and somewhat awesome spectacle to the boy and his mother as their machine turned into its broad expanse. Everywhere were people, cheering people, and flags. It was such a homecoming as politicians dream of —and never get.

The cavalry set a smart pace down the avenue, the clattering hoofbeats lost in the swelling tide of cheers and applause that rose from both sides. Lindbergh continually waved his hand at the people, his face showing his embarrassment. He smiled continually.

Then came the turn into Fifteenth street by the treasury, and thence it was but a short distance into the monument grounds. There a more imposing spectacle greeted the young flier's astonished gaze.

Beneath the towering white shaft erected to Washington were 50,000 people, spread out in indiscriminate confusion, but closely packed. The grass was invisible at any spot on the many-acred lot.

A few minutes after the president and Mrs. Coolidge arrived, a tremendous roar went up from thousands of throats in the monument throng. It preceded the dramatic entrance of the hero of the day. The roar began at Fifteenth street, and rumbled continuously apace with his car as, surrounded by the smartly trotting cavalry guard, it swept up to the stand.

The cheering was continuous, and the heat terrific in that close-packed multitude.

All around, as far as the eye could see, the tops of buildings and windows of their upper floors were packed with other thousands.

Seated in the stand were the highest officials of the government, the army, the navy, and the venerable justices of the Supreme court, the diplomatic corps, and such others whose "pull" was sufficient to get them the coveted admission—all present to honor the 25-year-old youth that few, if any, of them had ever heard of six weeks ago.

Coolidge Appears.

The Marine band struck up the anthem as the president appeared on the platform, and Mr. Coolidge stood with his hat across his breast facing the gleaming monument.

Overhead a squadron of airplanes deployed in battle formation.

A ring of friendly elms gave a natural border to the theater on the northern side while the raised mound at the base of the monument formed a natural gallery to the south.

It was an unique experience not only for 'Slim' Lindbergh, but also for Calvin Coolidge. It was probably one of the few times in history that the president of the United States ever waited for anybody, and also one of the few occasions, if ever, when the president of the United States was not the principal actor in the show.

Mr. Coolidge sat and clamly surveyed the multitude until the tremendous roar from outer reaches of the crowd warned him that the hero of the hour was approaching. Then, as if unable to restrain his curiosity, he rose with members of his cabinet and the venerable justices of the Supreme court and they all strained their necks like any ordinary persons to catch a glimpse of this youth who in four short weeks has flown into the hearts of the world.

As the machine stopped afront the stand with a yip from the brakes, the band swung into Sousa's old march "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Lindbergh stepped out, helped his mother alight, and together they went arm in arm up the steps to where the president greeted them with outstretched hand and a quiet smile.

There was a moment of general handshaking. Then everybody sat down, and the president walked to the front of the platform and began speaking.

Fan-like microphones carried his voice far out over the heads of the vast crowd, and it was but a moment until the crowd was strangely silent, listening to the chief magistrate speak the nation's pride in this youth and his epochal achievement.

Black With Humanity.

As the president began to speak the thousands who had lined the avenue swarmed into the monument grounds until every inch of sod on the great rolling slope was black with humanity.

The crowd burst into cheers as the president referred to the great feats accomplished in aviation by Americans in the past and then of "The unknown boy who braved the Atlantic."

Lindbergh, wearing his French Legion of Honor ribbon and other decorations, sat quietly beside Secretary of War Davis while the president spoke. The youth's smile was missing and he looked a trifle grave and tired.

The crowd broke the president's discourse a second time when he said:

"His mother endowed her son with her own modesty and charm."

This brought the multitude to its collective feet in a spontaneous tribute to Mrs. Lindbergh. They cheered until Mrs. Lindbergh arose and bowed acknowledgment.

Mrs. Coolidge led in this tribute, the first lady arising even before the crowd got to its feet.

Again the crowd cheered when President Coolidge cited Lindbergh's admirable record in the air reserve corps.

The crowd roared again when the president said: "This country will always remember how this young man was received by the people of France."

M'MULLEN SAYS WANTS LOWDEN

measure to become a law, Nebraska would now be riding on the top of a wave of prosperity. We need a man in the president's chair who has a more sympathetic attitude toward agriculture. I'm for Lowden because he stands for the interests of this great food-producing region. I want that understood as definitely as words can express it.

"From Governor Lowden's published utterance we have reason to believe that if he is placed in a position of authority he will do his utmost to bring agriculture into complete co-operation and establish it on terms of complete equality with other industries. That is what we want—co-operation of every industry with every other, and not antagonism by one against the others or by the others against one.

May Run for Delegate.

"My personal attitude is not dictated by a desire to run for any office. I am not a candidate for anything, and particularly not for national committeeman. I think Mr. McCloud is filling that place very acceptably and have no intention of filing against him.

"The one thing I am interested in at this time is in helping to throw Nebraska's support to a presidential candidate who will help our state, and I look upon Mr Lowden as pre-eminently that man. I might possibly become a candidate for delegate to the republican national convention in order to further that object. However, if others are willing to come forward and take up the fight I'm willing to let them have the field and take the honors.

"Too many politicians are prone to wait until they see where the bandwagon is and then try to climb aboard it. But this is no time for holding back. The vital welfare of Nebraska, a state wholly and solely dependent on agriculture, is now at stake. We must learn to do as the eastern fellows do—stand up for what we want and keep on demanding it.

"We should be foolish to let ordinary political considerations govern us when our economic future is involved. The powers that be in national affairs should have it impressed upon them that Nebraska is not certain to stay by its political moorings unless something is done to forward the interests of its chief industry.

Calls for Nonpartisan Action.

"I note that Congressman Haugen says there will be enough votes in the next congress to pass an agricultural relief bill with the equalization fee feature included, over the president's veto if necessary. Why should that be necessary? Why not have a president who will sign such a bill, and not veto it?

"We cannot afford to let ourselves be lulled into inaction by such talk. We must be for men in the white house and in congress who are responsive to the demand for agricultural equality with other lines of business, or who at least have open minds on the subject.

"The next congress should be organized, not by party caucuses, but by economic groups. Republicans, democrats and progressives who favor industrial equality should band themselves together to work for that object and should make it their first and chief business. That is the only kind of a caucus which should be held.

"We're not going to be satisfied with some bill passed on the eve of a campaign which merely holds out an indefinite prospect of some future benefit to the farmer. We want legislation based on a specific program of relief.

Loan Schemes Inadequate.

"The west is not asking for more loans to farmers. They are more deeply in debt now than they ought to be.

"We have also have enough commissions to investigate and report on agricultural conditions. All those heretofore appointed have found that there was something radically wrong. The thing now is to apply a remedy, and the only one offered which seems to meet the emergency is the plan for handling surplus agricultural products as provided for in the McNary-Haugen bill, without expense to the government.

"The only way Nebraska and her sister states of the west can expect to get anything is by fighting for it. If we are persistent and determined enough we shall win."

Governor McMullen said he was gratified by the change of sentiment which has apparently taken place in a good many industrial centers, relative to the necessity of an even balance between agriculture and other industries in order to assure continued national prosperity. He found members of the executive committee for the governor's conference, at their meeting in Chicago last week, quite responsive along that line.

To Call on Cal With Editors.

Notwithstanding his outspoken endorsement of Lowden's presidential candidacy, Governor McMullen is expecting to accompany the party of 500 or more newspaper men attending the national editorial convention at Omaha and Lincoln next week, when they go on their tour through Nebraska and to the Black Hills, including a call at the South Dakota state game lodge, President Coolidge's summer residence, where they will pay their respects.

Mrs. McMullen will go with her husband on the trip, which will be made by special train as far as Rapid City, S. D., and by automobile the rest of the way. Somewhat extended stops are to be made at Fremont, Norfolk and Chadron. The editors will take luncheon in the Chadron state park on Friday. There will be several other governors and their wives in the party.

Governor McMullen has a number of letters on his desk approving his declaration for Lowden and tendering him their support.

A Des Moines firm has sent him some sample stickers suitable for use in advancing the presidential candidacy of the Illinois man.

"Well, we'll have plenty of use for them," he told the newspaper reporters."

ern counties reduced the condition somewhat, but recent rains have improved the condition at the present time.

Bumper Hay Crop

Wild hay promises a bumper crop this year. The heavy April and May rainfall insures this crop. Conditions are exceptionally favorable in north central Nebraska where the bulk of the surplus wild hay is produced. The condition is 93 per cent as compared to 71 per cent a year ago.

Tame hay is rated at 93 per cent. With the exception of disappointing yields in some alfalfa fields the prospects for all kinds of tame hay are exceptionally good. The condition of alfalfa is 92 per cent, all clover and timothy hay, 93 per cent. The harvest of the first crop of alfalfa has started in southeastern counties. Many of the alfalfa stands are thinned and quite weedy. There is a large acreage of red clover this year and the crop is very good.

The condition of pasture is 94 percent. Pasture is unusually good. The sand hills have pasturage for an additional number of cattle. Sweet clover pasture is also very good, and if the usual rate of increase is maintained this year the state will have nearly a half million acres.

Nearly all fruit crops are promising except apricots. The condition of peaches is 75 per cent; pears, 68 per cent; apples, 77 per cent. Cherries and plums are fair. All small fruits are very good but need moisture in southeastern counties.

BUILDING PERMITS

O. T. Conkle, 2841 North Forty-fifth street, frame garage, $200.

Vine Congregational church, 530 North Twenty-fifth street, frame residence, $6,000.

H. H. Slater, 640 South Thirty-second street, frame garage, $125.

THE WEATHER

Pressure is low in the southwest and high in the northern mountain region. Scattered showers have resulted in Montana and the Dakotas and in Arizona and New Mexico. Cloudy and unsettled weather prevails throughout the great plains and the Missouri valley with warm weather from Nebraska southward and cool in the northern portions. Warm and rainy weather prevails in the Atlantic states, followed by fair and cooler in the Ohio valley and the lake region.

THE LINCOLN STAR

Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate carned.

Careful attention given to mail orders.

Cash in full must accompany out-of-town advertisement.

Advertising offered for irregular insertion takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

Errors in advertisement should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

The individual advertisements under the following classifications are arranged in ALPHABETICAL order for quick references.

BUILDING SETBACK DISPUTE SETTLED

Council Permits Addition, But Law Must Be Observed On New Structure.

Satisfactory settlement of the controversy between C. W. Hoke and the city over the erection of a building at Twenty-seventh and Randolph streets, was in sight Saturuay following an informal conference of the commissioners with the city attorney.

The city and Hoke may enter into a contract whereby the structure may be erected on a line with the present building, the city attorney said. A stipulation must be, however, that the addition will be no better than the old building. It also must be agreed that when a new building is erected it will be under the regulations governing setbacks in local business districts. Hoke has agreed to this.

The matter will come before the council Monday on Hoke's appeal from a decision by the board of appeals. Opposition by adjoining property owners will be heard.

Application for a re-classification at Twenty-seventh and T streets will probably be granted. The council has been petitioned by jroperty owners between T and U street to change the entire district to local business.

Chief Johnstone told the commissior it is impossible to enforce the parking ordinances because the force is inadequate.

Councilmen suggested trips through different districts. Restriction of parking on O street to 30 minutes was suggested and steps to prevent clerks and others from using parking spaces all day.

City Clerk Berg was asked to prepare a statement of insurance in effect for the city. City property is not sufficiently protected, it is thought.

APPEALING FROM $2,500 JUDGMENT

William Leaner and the village of Homer have appealed to the Supreme court from the verdict of a jury which awarded Wilford Bobier $2,500 for an injury to his foot which he suffered when he was shot by Leaner.

According to the evidence in the case, Leaner, who was constable, attempted to arrest Bobier for having violated a smallpox quarantine. Bobier resisted arrest by running away. Leaner fired at him and struck him in the foot. Bobier sued for $5,000.

Leaner claims that Bobier threatened him, and also made a motion toward his hip pocket. The officer says he fired because he thought Leaner had a gun in his pocket. He claims that he did not intend to hit Bobier, but only warn him.

Rickard Ready Tip Off Jack Dempsey's Hand

Tex Talks Next Week On Fight Plans Topic

Gotham Promoter Coming Out With Early Announcement as to Whether Dempsey or Sharkey Will Be Opponent of Gene Tunney in Championship Battle.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, June 11—"From now on, I'm in the game just for the h - - l of it."

Jack Sharkey, heavyweight pretender, was talking today and his conversation had to do with possible matches with Dempsey and Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world. He was particularly interested in a match with Tunney, which he was confident would result in the Lithuanians coming to their just reward or something.

Sharkey said in so many words that he no longer was interested in boxing from the financial standpoint and that a match with Tunney only meant a fight with another marine.

Sour On Marines.

"I went ashore as a gob at Guantanamo bay," he said. "A marine was doing shore police and he punched me in the nose. I'm going to get their champion in the ring and what I'll do to him will be plenty to make up for what that marine did to me. Tunney doesn't know what he is in for when he steps into the ring with me."

Sharkey, the man who can't go wrong, was equally certain that he could take care of either Dempsey or Tunney or both.

"So Tunney says I am a bobber, eh?" he wanted to know. "That boy has a lot to learn. I'm a bobber if I want to be and I can box and fight if the occasion calls for it. Tunney gives me a laugh. He decides just how I am going to fight him when I don't know how I am going to fight him myself. It will help a whole lot if Tunney has made up his mind just what kind of a fight I am going to make."

Take Your Choice.

Sharkey's remarks came on the heels of an unofficial announcement that Dempsey and Sharkey had been matched by Rickard for a date in July as a preliminary to a heavyweight championship match with Tunney.

There are two angles to the announcement and the reader is invited to take his choice. One is that Dempsey, having trained himself into condition, is ready to go for Rickard. The other is that he informed the promoter by wire some days ago he is convinced he cannot attain his former condition and he is through with the ring for good, or bad, as the case may be.

Tipoff On Message.

A thoroughly reliable young man claims to have seen this message from Dempsey to Rickard and has passed it on for what it may be worth, if anything. It is worth this much: That Rickard already has a first-class heavyweight contender in Jack Sharkey and doesn't have to play around with Dempsey any longer.

He can go with what he has and Dempsey can stay at home and nobody will be the worse for it.

Claim Jack Coming Back.

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Jack Dempsey's comeback to the ring was "on again" today, after being most uncertain and up in the air for the last few weeks.

In fistic circles close to Tex Rickard it was declared that the promoter will make announcement shortly of a 15-round battle between the former champion and Jack Sharkey, July 21, at the Yankee stadium. The prophets backed their statement with the observation that Rickard has promised "an important announcement soon."

In Touch With Tex.

Rickard has been in constant touch with Dempsey and has heard favorable reports from the ex-champion's mountain fighting camp in California. If the prophecy of the Sharkey fight is true, Dempsey will probably be heading eastward within two weeks to take up training quarters in his old haunts at Saratoga.

The winner of a Sharkey-Dempsey fight would get the promised title bout with Tunney which Chicago has been angling for. Should anything happen to keep Dempsey out of the "semi-final" ring, young Sharkey is to get the title chance without further ado, on the strength of his showing against Jim Maloney.

Drivers Square Off at Altoona

ALTOONA, Pa., June 11—A record crowd of automobile racing fans was expected to see the field of 16 racing cars get under way here today in the massive wooden bowl of the Altoona speedway association for the annual 200-mile championship prize. The purse totalled $20,000, with an individual prize of $7,000 to the winner. Preliminary to the main event, a race of stock cars will be staged with a purse of $5,000 to the winner.

Leon Durav in a Miller front drive racer, will lead the race starters in the main event. His qualifying record of 136.3 miles per hour established a new lap record and, by virtue of this, he was allowed the pole position.

Other drivers who qualified for the race were Cliff Woodbury, Peter De Paolo, Harry Hartz, Harry Miller, Tony Gutola, Dave Lewis, Dave Evans, Peter Kreis, Al Melcher, Frank Elliott, Bennie Hill, Earl Devore and Eddie Hearne.

George Souders, Dusenberg, winner of the Indianapolis Memorial day race, and Frank Lockhart, Miller front drive, are among the drivers who failed to qualify.

HELEN CONQUERS BRITISH CHAMP

BECKENHAM, England, June 11—Miss Helen Wills today won the Kent county ladies' tennis championship, defeating Mrs. L. A. Godfree, the former Kitty McKane, 6-2, 6-4.

The match was a base-line duel throughout and Miss Wills' cross driving placements, coupled with her superior speed, was too much for Mrs. Godfree, who is a former Wimbledon champion.

MacFarlane's Wood Shots Beat Jones

BY SOL METZGER.

Willie MacFarlane's victory in the 1925 United States open in his play-off with Bobby Jones was due to his rhythm and timing. Not once did he yield to the temptation of slugging. He played his game as he knew it, satisfied that if he yielded to the pressure of letting out too much it would spell his downfall. And to his wooden clubs went the decision. They gave him a slight edge.

As I have said before in these articles, a great golfer never overswings. Now and then one with prodigious hitting power will flash across the horizon and win a great title. It has happened in amateur ranks, but not among the pros, as Abe Mitchell will bear witness. MacFarlane's game is typical of the golf demanded to win the latter's title. I have pictured him at the top of one of his swings. His club does not go beyond a line parallel to the ground. Yet he rammed them out 230, 240 and even 250 yards against Jones for two days.

Note the position he places his left thumb on the leather. It is to one side of the center, just back of it as he addresses the ball. If one's thumb is held on a dead center, so that at the top of the swing the weight of the club rests on it, the left arm and wrist are likely to become tense. At address keep the left thumb just back of a line running down the center of the shaft to the ball.

SWIMS CHANNEL IN RECORD TIME

Bohemian Goes Across In 15 Minutes Under Eleven Hours.

PARIS, June 11—(AP)—A new record for a swim across the English channel is claimed for the Czechoslovakian swimmer, Venceslas Spacek, by the Czechoslovak legation here, which announces that he swam from Wissant, between Calais and Cape Groz Nez, to Dover, Thursday, in 10 hours and 45 minutes.

It is stated that he swam for part of the way with his countryman, Dvoracek, who abandoned the water after six hours. The legation says Spacek was convoyed by a tug and the swim was supervised by the Czechoslovak diplomatic officials.

Reward of $6,000

By the swim, the legation announces, he is entitled to the Czechoslovak ministry of hygiene's and the Sokol's joint prize of 200,000 crowns (about $6,000). The "Sokol" is the big athletic organization of Czechoslovakia.

Spacek is credited with having beaten Rademacher, the German champion, in a swim at Hanover two years ago.

Six persons swam the English channel during the season of 1926. The Frenchman, Georges Michel, made it in the fastest time—11 hours 5 minutes—on September 10.

Checking Up On Claim

PARIS, June 11—Careful investigation is being made today of the claim of Venceslas Spacek, that he swam the English channel from Wissant to Dover on Thursday in the record time of 10 hours and 45 minutes.

The Czecho-Slovak legation announced that it has not yet confirmed the claim of Spacek and it is endeavoring to communicate with Doctor Riha of the Czecho-Slovakian ministry of health, who, Spacek says, was at Calais when he made the swim.

BIG TEN SETS PACE IN MEET

Western Conference Has Edge In Qualifying For Finals.

BY JIMMY CORCORAN.

CHICAGO, June 11—Unless those highly tuned and field athletes of the "Big Ten" conference have developed the riukets of corns on the soles of their feet over night they should ramble away this afternoon with the bulk of the individual titles in the sixth annual national intercollegiate meet, which is now in progress at Soldiers field here.

Amos Alonzo Stagg and his brother collegians yesterday sifted more than 400 aces and mondescripts down to a good representation of the upper classes and these men will battle it out for the prizes this afternoon.

There were five athletes yesterday who skipped their way into the finals of two events apiece. They were Alderman of Michigan State in the 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles; Cockrell of the U. of Texas in the 220 and 100-yard dashes; Butler of Geneva college in the quarter-mile and the century; Cuhel of the University of Iowa in both hurdle events and Grim of Michigan State, who landed in the 220 and 100-yard dash finals.

Three Nebraskans Qualify.

Three athletes from the Cornhusker state went the pace of the qualifying prel ms—Johnson of Nebraska U. in the half-mile run, Wirsig of Nebraska U. in the pole vault and Alf of Doane college in the 220-dash.

Other Missouri Valley conference athletes qualifying Friday were Dunson of Oklahoma U. and Doornbos of Kansas, in the high hurdles, Caulum of Iowa State and Van Laningham of Drake in the half-mile and Grady of Kansas in the 220-dash.

Ted Lyons Stops New York Yanks

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—After three unsuccessful attempts to stop the Yankees, the Chicago White Sox managed to win the concluding game of the series yesterday, by 4 to 2. Ted Lyons held the New Yorkers to five hits and was the first pitcher in the two majors to win his eleventh victory this season. It was also his eighth triumph in a row. Lyons contributed a triple and a single, his three bagger in the fifth driving in Ward with what proved to be the deciding run. Bib Falk of Chicago hit a home run. By innings:

Chicago	0 0 0 2 1 0 0 1 0	—4	9	1
New York	0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	—2	5	1

Batteries—Lyons and McCurdy; Shocker and Grabowski.

Tigers Win in Twelfth.

BOSTON, June 11—(AP)—Ruffing blew up in the twelfth inning yesterday and Detroit in consequence defeated the Red Sox, 10 to 5. It was the third straight victory for the Tigers, the first time this season they have rolled up three consecutive wins. The four game series here resulted three to one for the Detroit club. The visitors made three runs in the ninth to tie Boston and carry the game into extra innings. By innings:

Detroit	0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 3 0 0 5	—10	13	0
Boston	1 0 0 1 0 2 1 0 0 0 0 0	—5	16	5

Batteries—Wells, Stoner, Collins, Carroll and Shea, Bassler; Lundgren, Wingfield, Ruffing and Hartley, Hofmann.

Speaker's Hit Beats Indians.

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Tris Speaker, with a double in the thirteenth inning, paved the way for a 6 to 5 Washington victory yesterday over his old teammates, the Cleveland Indians. McNeely, running for Speaker, was advanced to third on Judge's Sacrifice, and, after Bluege had walked, he scored on Reeves' single.

Washington overcame a four run lead in the sixth, putting five men across the plate. Cleveland tied the count in the eighth. The win gave the Senators three of the four games in the series. By innings:

Cleveland	1 1 0 0 0 2 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	—5	11	1

Macks Make Clean Sweep.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11—(AP)—The Athletics made a clean sweep of their four-game series with St. Louis and won their fifth in a row here yesterday by a score of 4-3. Eddie Rommel pitched a good game until the ninth, when a single by Miller and a double by Schulte scored a run and left the tying counter on second with only one out. Lefty Grove went into the box and saved the game by retiring Schang and O. Miller on infield outs. The Athletics bunched seven of their eight hits off Wingard in the second and third innings, Cobb hitting a home run in the third with Collins on base. Ernie Wingard, Brown pitcher, hit for the circuit in the eighth inning. By innings:

St. Louis	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 1	—3	7	1
Philadelphia	0 2 2 0 0 0 0 0 x	—4	8	0

BRUINS WIN OUT IN TEN INNINGS

Grizzlies One Run Ahead In Duel By Walker And Nelson.

DENVER, June 11—Lefty Walker of Denver and Nelson, Lincoln right hander, hooked up in a tense pitching duel yesterday at Merchants park, the Bear southpaw getting the verdict, 3 to 2, in a 10-inning battle. Although Walker allowed fewer hits, Nelson pitched effectively in every crisis and was returned loser entirely on account of errors by his teammates.

The game was scoreless until the seventh, when the Links clipped off their first run and the Bears came right back with the tying tally. The Bruins shot ahead in the eighth, but the Links knotted the score in the ninth, whereupon the Bears clipped off the deciding run in the tenth. The score:

6 Months In Jail For Rassling Fakes

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)— Six months to a year in jail or a fine not exceeding $200, or both, is in prospect today for fakers of prearranged athletic events, staged in Illinois.

The house of representatives at Springfield yesterday passed a bill fixing penalties for those found guilty of faking.

Pirates Wallop Giants' Hurlers

PITTSBURG, June 11—(AP)—Carmen Hill limited the Giants to seven hits yesterday while Pittsburgh gathered 17 off three opposing hurlers for a 13 to 4 decision in the windup game of the series. Paul Waner was the big batting star with a triple and two doubles, driving in two runs and scoring three times himself. The Corsairs put over seven runs in the fifth inning attack on Clarkson and Henry. The clubs split on the series with two games apiece. By innings:

New York	0 2 0 0 0 2 0 0 0	—4	7	1
Pittsburgh	2 0 0 1 7 1 1 1 *	—13	17	5

Batteries—Clarkson, Henry, Greenfield and O'Neil, Devormer; Hill and Gooch.

Reds Land on Phils.

CINCINNATI, June 11—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds made it three games out of four in their series with Philadelphia by winning the last game of the series, 9 to 3, here yesterday. The Reds started firing on Scott in the first inning and established a lead of three runs. By innings:

Philadelphia	0 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0	—3	9	4
Cincinnati	3 0 1 0 0 5 0 0 *	—9	15	1

Batteries—May, Kolp and Hargrave; Scott, Decatur and Jonnard, O'Donnell.

Braves Win From Cards.

ST. LOUIS, June 11—(AP)—Robert McGraw weakened in the eighth inning yesterday and the Boston Braves won from the St. Louis Cardinlas in ten innings, 11 to 8. Frisch tied the score in the ninth by hitting a home run with two men on. In the tenth, Jimmy Ring, who had replaced H. Bell, allowed three hits which, with two Cardinal errors, gave the visitors three runs and the game. By innings:

Boston	0 0 0 1 0 0 2 3 3 3	—11	14	2
St. Louis	0 1 1 0 0 2 1 0 3 0	—8	9	3

Batteries—Benton, Edwards, Mogridge and Hogan; McGraw, Bell, Ring and Snyder.

Cubs Win Over Dodgers.

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—Stephenson's single in the twelfth inning with the bases loaded, scored Beck with the run which gave Chicago a 5 to 4 decision over Brooklyn in the final game of the series yesterday and ran the Cubs' winning streak to six straight. Brillheart went the distance for Chicago and was opposed by McWeeny, Ehrhardt and Barnes. The Robins had the bases filled in their half of the twelfth but Barnes popped to retire the side. By innings:

Brooklyn	2 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0	—4	9	2
Chicago	0 1 0 1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 1	—5	14	0

Believers In Signs Bet on Sure Things

BY AL DEMAREE.

Shortly after the big world series expose of 1919, another gambling scandal broke out in the Pacific Coast league that resulted in the expelling of several well-known pitchers.

The methods used by the players in the Coast league scandal were entirely different from the ones used by the "Black Sox" in 1919.

There was no thought or attempt to intentionally "sluff" off a ball game.

The pitchers merely worked in collusion with a crowd of gamblers in the grandstand who gave odds and bet with the spectators as to whether the batter would reach first base or not and split their winnings with the pitcher.

Working with the pitcher with the aid of a set of signs, the gamblers could afford to give big odds, as they were betting on a sure thing.

After they had placed their bets, the rest was easy. Removing their hat signalled the pitcher to walk the next hitter. Crossing their right leg over the left was the sign to hit the following batter. Crossing the left leg over the right told the twirler to lay the ball through the middle of the plate with medium speed to enable the hitter to reach first on a base hit.

One of the pitchers missed the signs one day and the gamblers squealed, which resulted in running the guilty athletes out of organized baseball.

EX-GIANT LEADS WESTERN LEAGUE

Cunningham Tops Casey In Race for Laurels As Best Hitter.

A newcomer in the Western league, once with New York and Boston in the National league, Bill Cunningham of Des Moines, is leading the circuit in hitting today with a mark of .500 for his 10 games. In his 34 times at bat he has hit safely 17 times, including seven doubles and one triple. He outshines the mighty Casey of Tulsa for the time being, who has but a mere .429 mark for 39 games.

True to his name, though, Casey is close to the leadership in homers, with sixteen, one less than his teammate, Munson. Munson struck a bad slump this week, falling off 20 points, though two of his blows were circuit drives, putting him just one behind Babe Ruth's present mark.

Blaeholder Beaten.

Blaeholder, the Tulsa flinger, who ran up a string of 12 consecutive victories on the hill, was at last beaten for the first time this season by Oklahoma City.

The champion base stealer of all leagues seems to be Joe Rabbit of Omaha, who has scored 2 thefts so far this year, about double the best major league effort.

Fred Luderus, the Oklahoma City manager and pinch-hitter, tops the league in batting for the 0 games in which he has sauntered to the plate in a relief role, getting five hits in nine times at bat and one sacrifice.

Day Wins Nine.

Day of Wichita is closest to Blaeholder in games won, but his nine victories on the mound are shadowed by five defeats.

Leading hitters of the Western league are: Cunningham, Des Moines, .500; Casey, Tulsa, .429; Langford, Des Moines, .395; Wingfield, Tulsa, .394; Comorosky, Wichita, .39; Bennett, Tulsa, .391; Munson, Tulsa, .378; Davis, Omaha, .370; Compton, Denver, .368; Murphy, Denver, .364.

No Game at Omaha.

Des Moines-Omaha game called off Friday, account of failure by Des Moines club to arrive from Denver.

Ted Pillette to St. Paul Saints

Ted Pillette, former Lincoln club pitcher, has drawn a promotion from the Beaumont club of the Texas league to St. Paul of the American association. Pillette was with the Links last summer until mid-season, when his release was sold to the Detroit Americans. The latter club then sent him to Oklahoma City, where he finished the pennant campaign. Ted's release was purchased by the Beaumonters last winter and, in turn, the ex-Lincoln pitcher now goes to the St. Paul Saints via the purchase route.

Press dispatches dated Friday night related that Herman Pillette, older brother of Ted, was the pitcher involved in the St. Paul-Beaumont deal, but Saturday morning wire information via the Associated Press indicated that it was Ted who is going up to the Saints.

Aitken vs. Brown In City Tourney Finals

By AUBREY CARRELL.

Phil Aitken, Country Club, and Joe Brown, Eastridge, remained in the running for the 1927 championship of the Capital City links, following the semi-final matches on the Country Club course Friday afternoon. Phil Aitken, present city champion, met the young Eastridge champion in a 36-hole final round today. The first 18 holes were scheduled for this morning and the remainder were to be played this afternoon.

Aitken 7 Up On First 18

Phil Aitken, Country club, was 7 up on Joe Brown, Eastridge, at the end of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole match for the 1927 city golf title. Aitken started the morning round with two birdies and was always ahead of his opponent.

Aitken and Brown.

Aitken advanced into the finals and earned a chance to defend the championship he now holds when he defeated Willard Folsom, another Country Club player, 2 up, after a closely played round. Joe Brown came through the lower bracket when he eliminated Hank Strauch, young Lincoln high golfer who does his playing on the Country Club course, 3 and 2.

Joe Brown bested the Country Club youth only after a match which developed into a real battle, following some nervous golf on the part of Strauch which gave Brown an early lead. Strauch, who has had comparatively little experience in match play, apparently was suffering from something closely akin to buck fever in the early stages of his match, and was unable to shoot his regular game.

Brown In Front Early.

This enabled Brown, who was one over par on the inside nine, to win four out of the first five holes, putting Strauch four down. The latter made back one of the holes before the turn and was only 2 down as they started for No. 11, but after halving four successive holes, Brown was 3 up with a birdie three on No. 15, leaving Strauch dormie. The next hole was split with a pair of 5s, ending the match.

The Eastridge champion had a distinct advantage off the tee, breaking loose with only one bad drive. Strauch, however, was having trouble with his driver, five of his first shots coming to rest in the tall grass. Honors on the greens were about even, Brown recovering two holes with long putts, one for better than 20 feet on No. 4 and an 18-footer for a birdie on No. 15 Strauch sank a long green shot to halve No. 14, and won No. 8 with a 20-foot putt.

Strauch In Trouble.

On the first hole, both players were across the green with their seconds shots, but the hole was halved with fours when both were dead to the pin on their third strokes. Brown began his winning streak on the following hole when Strauch pressed a long drive against the fence at the left of No. 3 fairway, causing him to waste a stroke in order to get a playable lie.

Another bad tee shot cost Strauch the third hole when his drive sliced out of bounds and his approach fell short of the green. Brown started No. 4 badly by driving out of bounds, but the Eastridge champion made the further edge of the green in three and holed a long putt, leaving Strauch an eight-foot putt, which he missed.

On No. 5, a 141-yard pitch shot hole, Strauch's iron shot skittered along the ground and failed to carry the green, while Brown was on in one. Brown two-putted the green and Strauch dropped the hole when he took a four.

"Hanks" Starts Rally.

Brown's next drive fell short, however, leaving him in the rough at the right of the fairway. On his next shot, Brown was hole high but in the rough on the opposite side of the fairway. Strauch played flawless golf, winning the hole when he made the green in two and went down with two putts for a four.

After No. 7 had been halved with par 4s, Strauch won No. 8 with a long putt, a bad second shot with his brassie which left him in the rough. He made an excellent recovery, however, and was on the green in three. Brown was hole high after his second shot and had an easy approach shot, but Strauch took the hole when he dropped a long curling putt from the edge of the green.

Brown Is Three Up.

Brown put Strauch 3 down again on the following hole when the Country Club player pushed his approach shot across the green and later missed a chance to halve the hole when he faltered on a short putt. On No. 10, Brown's pitch was short of the green and in the sand trap while Strauch was on in one. Both made nice approaches, but Brown missed a long putt, leaving Strauch an easy shot to win the hole.

No. 11, a par 5 hole, was halved. On the following hole, both drives were past the green and the approach shots left the players a goodly distance from the pin. The hole was divided with 4s, one stroke above par. No. 13, another long hole, was also split. Strauch's tee shot was long, but in the rough. He made an excellent iron shot, however, while Brown was short with an approach putt from the edge of the green, which enabled Strauch to halve the hole.

Joe Sinks 18-Footer.

Strauch also halved the next hole by making a long putt for a par three after his pitch shot from the tee had fallen just short of the green. The next hole, No. 15, left Strauch dormie when Brown went 3 up by winning it when he dropped an 18-foot putt in the cup for a birdie three. The final hole of the match was halved, Brown missing an 18-inch putt which would have given him the hole. Their cards:

Out—
Brown	4 4 4 4 3 5 4 5 4	—37
Strauch	4 5 6 5 4 4 4 4 5	—41

Aitken Turns Back Folsom.

Phil Aitken, 1926 city golf champion, went into the finals of the 1927 tourney Friday afternoon, defeating Billy Folsom, former city titleholder, 2 up. Both are Lincoln Country club players.

The 18-hole clash was a stubbornly contested affair in which each golfer devoted his sole attention to match play and let the medal score take care of itself. After a ragged first nine, Aitken rallied on the inside to take a 37 for a 77 total. Folsom had a pair of 40's.

Although Aitken left the "gate" wide open on numerous occasions, Folsom was never leading during the match, although the duo drove off No. 15 tee with the match all-square. Aitken proceeded to win No. 15, halved the next two holes and took a par four on No. 18 to win hole and match.

Aitken started winning No. 1 when Folsom's tee shot hooked into No. 3 fairway. Both were in trouble on Nos. 2, 3 and 4 and were content to halve the holes with a stroke over par. Aitken ran a nine-foot putt to capture No. 5 with a birdie two. Folsom played his irons in fine fashion to win No. 6 and they halved the next two holes, Aitken being one up at the turn.

Folsom's iron shot off No. 10 tee found a sand trap outside the bull ring and Aitken won the hole with a safe three. Folsom got back the honor by taking a par five on the 555-yard No. 11. Folsom three-putted the green and Aitken was down with a par three on No. 12 and they drove off for No. 13 with Aitken two up.

Stumbled On Stymie.

Folsom's best chance for victory came at this stage of the match. Two down and apparently about to lose another hole, the former city champ laid Aitgen a perfect stymie. The 1926 champion, instead of taking a safe two to halve the hole, decide to try his hand at negotiating the stymie. His effort was wild, knocking Folsom's ball in the cup and giving Billy a par four to win the hole. Folsom bore down on the advantage and won No. 14 with a birdie two to square the match.

Aitken regained the honor and was one up by taking No. 15. Folsom's second shot was out of bounds and his recovery was off the green in a trap.

All Over On Eighteenth.

Folsom hung on until the eighteenth, where some ragged work on the green cost him the hole and chance to square the match. The cards:

Out—
Aitken	4 5 5 5 2 4 6 5 4	—40
Folsom	5 5 5 5 3 4 4 5 4	—40
In—
Aitken	3 6 3 5 3 4 4 5 4	—37—77
Folsom	5 5 4 4 2 6 4 5 5	—40—80

The Lower Flights.

All other flights also went into the finals. Dr. F. W. Albrecht, Eastridge, defeated Arch Bunting, Country Club, thereby getting himself a match with Don Chapin in the final match of the second flight. In the championship consolation flight, J. H. Johnson, Country Club, put Fred Kissler out of the competition and will play Bob Harrison, jr. in the finals today. Friday results:

Ted Lyons and Paul Waner, two ball playing products of the south and southwest came in for the largest shares of individual glory today as their teams moved onward in their rapid chase for pennant and world crown. Lyons pitched his eighth straight victory and his eleventh in 13 starts for the Chicago White Sox in beating the Yankees, 4 to 2, yesterday, and Waner of the Pirates swelled a batting record that already included leadership of his league in the hitting of three baggers by getting two doubles and a triple as his team beat the Giants, 13 to 4.
